Rusk Attack on Foes of Foreign Aid Held Error

U.S. Will Disperse Jet Fighters to Cut Vulnerability

Precautions Ordered to Avert Possible Knockout by Missiles

BY FRED S HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dispersal of more than 100 Air Force jet fighters next summer will reduce their vulnerability to Soviet missile knockout while keeping them in position to intercept any attacking Russian bombers

The Air Force announced Friday that three squadrons of interceptors will be shifted two beefed up two others disbanded and their planes redistributed to other units

Involved are 1,200-mile-an-hour F101 Voodoos and 1,500 mile an hour F106 Delta Darts in squadrons in California, Oregon, Washington State Massachusetts Delaware, and Maryland, just outside Washington, D C

In all about 900 U S jets are assigned to the North American Air Defense Command

Maximum Safegaurds

The announcement said the dispersal is aimed at giving Air Force fighter interceptors maximum survivability in the event of a ballistic missile attack upon this country

Secretary of Defense Robert S McNamara and the Air Force have been concerned for some time about a situation which finds air defense units sharing fields with such prime missile targets as Strategic Air Command bombers

Thus, defense officials have feared the Russians might be able with a single nuclear missile blow to knock out both bombers and the U S fighters whose mission would be to meet any Soviet bomber assault following up a missile strike on this country

McNamara told Congress recently the Pentagon proposes to disperse air defense forces further in the fiscal year starting July 1 by providing additional facilities at a number of U S interceptor dispersal bases.

Extended Dispersal

This action will permit the spreading out of about one quarter of the interceptor force for extended periods of time he said

During the Cuban crisis last fall virtually all the interceptors —armed with nuclear-tipped air-to-air rockets — were dispersed widely around the country

Another factor besides survivability is believed involved in the dispersal plan

With the Soviet bomber threat expected to decline in the years ahead the Air Force is building no more interceptor planes The fighters it is buying and developing are tactical aircraft mainly for achieving air superiority over the battlefield and supporting ground assault

The size of the interceptor force has been declining through attrition caused by accidental crackups and the like

Thus by dispersing the fewer air defense craft can be put in better position to protect key points

Fungus Seen as Possible Cause Of Some Cancers

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE

LA JOLLA Calif (AP)—Cancer detectives are trailing a strange new suspect—the lowly fungus—as a possible cause of some cancers

Fungi or molds, might contaminate some foods we eat or even exist in some drugs Dr Michael B Shimkin of the National Cancer Institute Bethesda, Md said Friday night.

Fungi are one of the lowest forms of life Some are familiar as the molds on food, including green mold on bread but that particular mold has not been implicated

Reporting to an American Cancer Society seminar for science writers Dr Shimkin told of evidence involving moldy peanuts and moldy corn

In 1960 he said 100,000 turkeys died in England from disease X traced to their food

The killer turned out to be a poison named aflatoxin produced by a mold or fungus contaminating peanuts in part of their food

When rats were fed large amounts of this same fungus poison they got liver cancers

Refugees Still Active

U.S. and British Forces Kept Busy Striving to Curb Elusive Cubans

MIAMI Fla (AP) — Elusive Cuban exiles kept U S and British forces hopping today to rid the Keys of Florida and the Bahamas of guerrillas bent on harassing Cuban prime minister Fidel Castro

British marines combed lonely Williams Cay, 70 miles southwest of Nassau, for munitions or other supplies believed cached there by unidentified men who fled at their approach

Elusive Boat Attack

Reinforced air and sea units of the Miami based Seventh Coast Guard District watched for sneak departures by innocent looking small craft which often have proved to be carrying heavily armed anti Castro fighters

Nodding peacefully at a Miami dock was the 35 foot motor boat Violynn III It arrived Friday with its crew of 17 in the windup of a cruise that started as a Cuba raid and bogged down in Bahamas detention and a Nassau to-Miami voyage shadowed by Coast Guard fliers—until they lost the little ship in darkness

The only English speaking member of the crew said the Violynn III rebuffed a Coast Guard cutter captain's demand that the raiders allow their boat to be boarded near the edge of Bahamas territorial waters

Jerry Buchanan, 24 of Miami was quoted by his brother Jim Pompano Beach Sun Sentinel newsman as saying that Evelio Duque commanding the Violynn III had him reply that in no case would boarders be permitted on the little craft but that it would obey the cutter's request to proceed toward Miami

Two U S citizens in the crew were questioned and released by immigration officials

I have plans to keep fighting communism and if this means fighting the Cuban regime yes Buchanan told newsmen

His shipmate Ramon Sanchez said Duque "will keep fighting He will fight any way possible until Cuba is free"

Buchanan and Sanchez said the Violynn III's sister ship Omega I was still operating in international waters —they wouldn't say where

Even while the crew of the Violynn III was being questioned at Miami 36 British marines were heading in three launches for Williams Cay to investigate reports that an anti Castro band was hiding there

Illegal Entry Charged

An official military announcement said five unidentified men dashed to an outboard motor boat at the marines approach and sped away toward Andros Island They were not pursued

Buchaman was charged in the Bahamas with illegal entry and his crewmates were charged with possessing unlicensed guns He was released on bail but his companions spent three nights in jail Authorities dropped charges against all 17 Thursday and returned their boat and arms—but no ammunition.

May Cause Opposition To Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk's head-on attack against congressional slashers of foreign aid may—in the view of both friends and foes of the program—turn out to have been a tactical blunder

Both camps indicated his bold charge may draw more fire on the program instead of diminishing it

Opening six to seven weeks of hearings on the foreign aid authorization bill Friday the usually diplomatic Rusk shot this blast

"There is nothing that the Communists want more than to see the Yanks go home If we Yanks come home the Communists will begin to take over Why any American would want to cooperate with that global Communist strategy is beyond my understanding But that is what sharp cuts in our foreign aid programs would mean

Statement Resented

Said Rep Otto Passman D La, who leads the fight to slash the foreign aid funds each year Congress will never give him a dollar in foreign aid if he makes statements like that" Passman is chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee which handles aid funds

It was learned meanwhile that Passman arranged a quiet meeting this morning at his office with Gen Lucius Clay, head of a presidential committee which recommended tightening up of the foreign aid program

Deplores Attack

A Democratic committee member who strongly favors the foreign aid principle said ruefully of Rusk's statement I think this is putting a weapon in their hands . I try to operate on the principle that you catch more flies with honey than with vinegar"

Asking that his name not be used he added "This year is the year that the drums are beating for cuts in foreign aid which has fewer constituents on Capitol Hill than anything else"

He added that he doubted Rusk actually wrote the strong wording of the statement or reviewed it as carefully as he might have"

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

No. Anxiety is more vague. We are afraid of something specific, but in anxiety we are not quite sure what we are worried about. Anxieties sometimes develop into fears, and may even result in panic. The causes of anxiety are thought to be either great uncertainties or the clash of strong conflicting desires within the individual that hold each other in check, yet always threaten to break out and cause serious trouble.

Who are most realistic?

Middle class—— Working class——

Middle class. Some psychologists claim that the working class people are more inclined to blame others for their troubles, and to depend upon politicians and leaders to get them out of their difficulties. They are more eager to support unrealistic social policies that will do more harm than good in the long run.

Will anyone else ever like you?

Yes—— No——

No, say psychologists. You are the only person who ever lived, or who ever will live with your particular inheritance. Even identical twins are not really identical. You have grown up in a particular culture and at a particular time. Your parents were older or younger than when your brothers or sisters were born, and therefore you did not grow up in the same family. You have had different friends and different experiences than anyone who has ever lived. You are YOU.

Young Carpenters Can Avoid Scars When Nailing

BY CAPPY DICK

It takes a pretty good craftsman to hit the nail on the head every time and, as any boy carpenter knows, when your hammer does miss the nail the hammer head can make an ugly dent in a wood surface. When working with nice-looking surfaces these scars are unfortunate and every good carpenter tries to avoid them.

Today's fun-project idea will protect the surface of wood when you are driving nails. It's a simple shield easily made from a piece of corrugated cardboard.

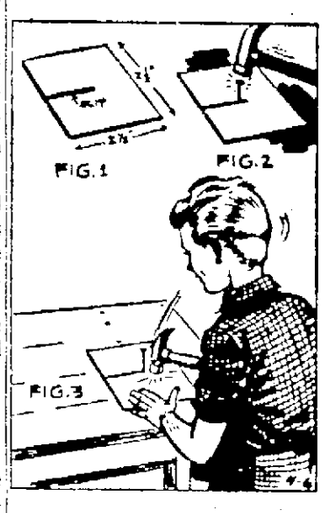

Cut a piece of a corrugated board about two and a half inches square and make a slot to the center of it as shown in Figure 1.

Starting the Nail

Start the nail by tapping it once or twice. Place the corrugated shield around the naiti as in Figure 2. Then go ahead and pound. If you accidentally miss the nail as the boy has done in Figure3, the hammer head will strike the corrugated board. There is little likelihood that an uly dent will be made in the wood because the corrugated board will soften the blow.

After the nail has been driven almost all the way into the wood, remove the shield and, if necessary, finish pounding the nail with the aid of a nail setter.

The material for the shield may be obtained from a corrugated carton.

Critics, Film Academy Disagree on Top Shows

Nation's Reviewers Pick Two Films Not Included in Oscar Nominations

BY JINGO

Monday's the night! All of the nation — in fact a good deal of the world — will turn its attention to filmdom. It's the time of the Oscar and through the land the voice of the Academy is heard.

Strangely enough this program of awarding excellence as seen by the constitutents of the Academy is the very best drawing program of filmdom's worst competitor and best customer Very few people will be at the movies on the movies night!

Jingo

The members of the Academy have voted for pictures and stars and other technicians nominated in a long list of categories—five to each category All of the shouting is about the announcement of the results of all of this voting

The films have been the subject of other voting also. The results don't show up on any spectacular TV shows, but at this late moment before Oscar's night it might be interesting to know that the newspaper and magazine critics of the nation picked as the best picture of the year one that didn't even get nominated by the Academy

The critics' choice was "The Manchurian Candidate" by six votes over "The Music Man," one of the Academy nominees. The third place went to "The Miracle Worker," not nominated and fourth and fifth places went to Oscar nominees "The Longest Day" and "To Kill a Mocking bird."

The film usually given the best chance in speculation over the Oscar winner, "Lawrence of Arabia," placed eighth, 71 votes behind the top "Mutiny on the Bounty," the fifth Oscar nominee, was given only 18 votes by the critics to place 25th in the poll

Monday Will Tell

That's what the men and women who are paid to evaluate Hollywood's product think Monday we'll find out what the film makers think of their own work It is said this latter choice often is involved with not a little pressure and politics

Last year was a pretty good vintage for films, but this year Hollywood promises "movies are better than ever"

Three of the big producers, MGM, Universal and Fox, have announced the release of 37 films through August That figures out at 18 each for MGM and Universal since Fox is stacking all of its hopes on one gigantic $37 million bet. "Cleopatra"

One of the big things apparent is that the moguls are determined to have variety in their bookings Next month Universal will release "Paranoiac" and "Showdown" MGM's May offerings will be In the Cool of the Day" "Drums of Africa," "Flipper" "Dime With a Halo and "Son of Spartacus"

In June Universal releases "Lancelot and Guinevere" and "Tammy and the Doctor" and MGM's June offerings will be "The Golden Arrow" and "Cattle King"

July's offerings are really diverse From Universal comes 'A Gathering of Eagles" "King Kong vs. Godzilla" "The Thrill of It All' and 'The Traitors" while MGM releases "Captain Sindbad' 'A Ticklish Affair," Two Are Guilty," 'The Day and the Hour" and 'Tarzan Faces Three Challenges

"The King of the Vampires" is Universal's August offering and out of MGM will come "Tamahine," "The Young and the Brave," "The Seven Gladiators" and "Tico and the Shark."

TEST YOURSELF — 7

Can You Take It?

By WILLIAM BERNARD and JULES LEOPOLD

Are you one of those fortunate individuals whose brains can rise to the occasion?

The amusing quiz below falls into the "complicated directions" class included in some mental test batteries Many psychologists believe that the ability to follow complex directions is itself an index of mental capacity You can judge your score from that standpoint, if you wish

But it is weighed here, under special time conditions, primarily to discover if you keep your equanimity and poise under stress. If so, like the "money player" in sports, you can be at your best when the chips are down

A good score would hint that your mind can take it when it comes to complications under time pressure. Of the sample (adult) group tested, the top 10 per cent scored 19 or higher Just under were 20 per cent who made from 14 to 15 points The next 30 per cent scored 12 to 13 right Count your correct answers and see into which group you fit Less than 12 correct shows that you may tend to become confused in unfamiliar situations requiring rapid brainwork.

DIRECTIONS—Simply follow as best you can the instructions in the paragraph below. TIME LIMIT: 5 MINUTES

If the letter Z appears anywhere before this comma, cross it out—otherwise cross it out in this word ZOO. Now unless the word word appears in sword draw a wavy line here ....., otherwise draw a cross, and by the way, if A is number 1 in the alphabet, what does JM total? ..... If dogs chase cats and cats chase mice tell what single-figure odd number becomes even when viewed upside-down ....., otherwise draw a cross ..... Don't write DISCURSIVE here ..... if the word does not contain all of the vowels, but instead write the first four vowels in the alphabet. Now go back to the first sentence and circle the word ZOO unless a circle cannot represent any letter of the alphabet So much for the alphabet, except that if C is not the third letter don't draw a square in this space ..... but do draw a cow's ear in the margin of the page, unless D is not the second letter, in which case draw a human ear, unless you can't draw a human ear If EAR rhymes with HAIR draw an ear anyway Can you count from 10 down to 5? Do this backwards, writing the numbers on this line ..... Now if a BAT can be a bird or not an animal don't draw a ball on the page margin, but write there the letters which appear least often in ABRACADABRA Punctuate this sentence to make sense: THAT THAT IS IS Then if the wrong answer to "What is the largest state?" is "Texas," write CALIFORNIA here ..... otherwise in the same space don't write ZOWIE unless deer hear Draw a line over the second word in this sentence and under the second word in the next sentence Write three words ending in X at the top of this page Write XYZ at the left of the page if a circle is not a square Wait! Write it at the right of the page instead unless a circle is sometimes bigger than a square Next, give the wrong answer to the negative of this question HOW OLD ARE YOU? ..... Now if you've had enough write UNCLE at the end of this sentence, otherwise write UNCLE.

Rock County Vote Big Help for GOP

Feeling Is That Reynolds Chose Wrong Place, Time, Issue for Test

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON—The extraordinary triumph of a Republican legislative candidate in a special Rock County election Tuesday has had the effect of a dose of pep pills on the battered Wisconsin Republican party.

There is jubilation among Republicans in the legislature and elsewhere about an election result that can fairly be interpreted as a repudiation of the controversial fiscal policies of Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds by the terms that the governor chose to declare before the votes were counted.

The victory margin of Mrs. Carolyn Blanchard, widow of the former Republican speaker of the assembly, was far greater than the experts in either political party had expected and puts her in the center of the Wisconsin political stage.

The feat of gathering about 70 per cent of the votes polled in the Republican column was devastating news to the Democrats, who had invested exceptional campaign efforts for their nominee.

'Unbelievable Disaster'

As Gov. Reynolds put it with the utter candor which has made him one of the most disarming politicians of his times, it was "an unbelievable disaster" for the Democratic cause.

For the Republicans it was the most heartening news since that bleak day last November when the party lost the governorship which it had believed was in the bag.

It inevitably will stiffen the will of the Republican legislative majorities to resist the governor's taxation and spending demands, and makes a prolonged struggle and stalemate between the executive and legislative branches virtually inevitable.

Republicans now have a clue to popular reaction to their position, and more important, to the policies of the state administration. They can now be expected to move with discipline to:

1. Reject totally the Reynolds tax bill with its proposals for state tax redistribution and the levying of an additional one per cent income tax on each $1,000 bracket of personal income of most persons.

2. Trim back substantially the record-high Reynolds biennial budget bill.

Alternate Bill

3. Pass and submit to him their own alternative revenue bill in the form of a general sales tax with necessities exempt, to produce enough money to cover the expected budget increases and to plow additional sums into localities for the relief of local property tax rates.

4. Recess the legislature to a future time, probably next fall, in the expectation that Reynolds will veto the revenue bill and force a renewal of the fiscal jockeying.

Democrats are now privately admitting that Gov. Reynolds and Democratic Chairman Patrick J. Lucey made a costly error when they decided to make the Rock County special election result a kind of referendum of the acceptability of the Reynolds tax and spending proposals.

But in actuality, both political parties' strategists erred in assessing the election outcome. Republicans had felt there was a good chance that Reynolds was expecting a slight improvement in the Democratic pool in the traditionally Republican district.

Thus the record high Republican vote ratio astounded both parties, and was as encouraging to the Republicans as it was demoralizing to the Democrats.

Has a Sign

There has been a good deal of bravado in the Republican legislature's posture of belligerent opposition to the Democratic governor since last January. Now for the first time it has a sign that it may be making some progress in attracting electoral opinion to its position.

Protest Plan To Abandon '400' Trains

EAU CLAIRE (AP) — Northwestern Wisconsin residents, including educators, city officials, hospital authorities and resort owners contend that the proposed discontinuance by the North Western Road of its "400" passenger trains would work an economic hardship on the area.

The road operates two of its fast trains daily each way between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul with some stops in Wisconsin. It has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to drop the trains, contending it is losing $6,500 daily on their operations.

One of a series of hearings on the road's aplication was held here Friday. Examiner Edmund T. Fritz continued the hearing until today after hearing 23 persons testify. More than 100 persons attended the session. Other hearings are scheduled next week at Madison and Milwaukee and Rochester, Minn.

Dr. William J. Micheels, president of Stout State College at nearby Menomonie; and Dr. Leonard Haas, president of Eau Claire State, testified that hundreds of students would have trouble getting to and from the school if the trains are discontinued.

Hospital officials at Menomonie, Chipewa Falls and Spooner said that their patients, nurses and employes depend on the trains.

Mayor J. C. Banks of Chetek said 87 resort owners of his area reported that about 1,600 guests use the "400" trains annually. Clifford Lue, of the Superior Association of Commerce said many tourists who come to his area use the trains for part of their trips.

Economic Barometers

Increase of Young Beggars on Korean Streets Emphasizes Chaos

BY CONRAD FINK

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Beggar children, those ragged little barometers of the South Korean economy, are back on the streets of Seoul.

Piteously crying for the price of a bowl of rice, the children starkly emphasize signs that this politically chaotic nation may be headed for economic disaster.

Unemployment is rising, prices are going up, foreign exchange reserves are dropping sharply, businessmen are gripped by an uncertainty that is drying up investment.

Ironically, many economists here feel the Korean economy under proper conditions could rack up a respectable growth rate of 5 to 7 per cent annually. But many of the nation's 26 million people now have barely enough to subsist.

Blame Placed

There is an increasing tendency to blame current problems on the power struggle between the military government and civilian politicians.

The Korean Businessmen's Association voiced this by offering to shed its policy of noninvolvement in politics and mediate the military-politician quarrel.

But more important, there is fear the nation is beginning to feel a disaster that inevitably will result from what many Koreans term short-sighted economic programs rammed through by the military government six months or a year ago.

Additionally, there is fear—with a tinge of panic—that the United States no longer can be expected to pump in dollars to prop up the economy.

About $75 million in economic aid has been allocated for fiscal 1963 but the Korean government wants $25 million more.

Washington has made clear, however, it is reviewing its aid program in light of Gen. Chung Hee Park's proposal to keep his military regime in power.

To many Koreans this means the United States is determined to use its aid program as a weapon against Park. Actually, the United States became disenchanted with Park and his military economists long before March 16, when he announced his rule should be extended.

U.S. concern dates back about a year when Park's regime launched programs designed to reap quick, spectacular benefits.

Among these was a disastrous currency reform. It was quickly called off, but not before business was virtually halted. Unemployment already was estimated at 2.5 million but it started climbing again.

Windstorm Loss Set At Nearly $1 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—The Insurance Information Institute reports that a windstorm which lashed the Midwest earlier this week caused nearly $1 million in damage claims.

The institute said Friday that two adjustment agencies representing some 300 property insurers reported claims in a five state area totaled $950,000.

The area surveyed included southern Wisconsin, Iowa, northern Illinois, northern Indiana and southern Michigan. The wind carried the punch of 60-mile gusts.

Minding Your Business

HERB BROWN, CPA, REVOLTS AGAINST BOOK PUBLISHERS

DEAR CY:

Sex appeal is the only kind of appeal I haven't put into the books I wrote. When I talk to publishers, they think they are doing me a great big favor by listening. Never do they think of the profit possibilities of my new do-it-yourself book. I am cordially dismissed with, "It isn't exactly what we are looking for." Do authors ever publish their own books?

TWO HUNDRED PAGES

DEAR TWO HUNDRED PAGES:

Yes. Herbert L. Brown is a Certified Public Accountant bitten with the bridge bug. When not figuring someone else's taxes or playing cards, he penned "What's Your Bridge I.Q.?" Unlike other bridge books, this one offers a means for accurately measuring a player's extent of bridge knowledge. With it, the beginner or expert can determine his strong or weak points of play. Herbert Brown, C.P.A., became furious, hat-in-handing it with book publishers, and revolted. He contacted the Standard Press in Louisville and told them to roll the presses. "What's Your Bridge I.Q.?" is now printed and Herb showed me a packet of rave notices on the work. Dr. Rex H. Knowles, Ph. D., a psychology prof., says, "This book is an excellent psychological and educational aid for making you feel at home with almost any partner and capable of taking on almost any opponent." Whether Herb's independence will pay off remains to be proven. Though a rare feat, I believe it will. And, a few of us still remember the strong seller, "Arthritis and Common Sense," was author-published.

DEAR CY:

I am 46 years old and, though employed, am not sure of having the same job until retirement age. I have played the piano since I was a teen-ager and have a little knowledge of the mechanism. In some cities, piano tuners are in great demand. Is this something handed down from father to son or can piano tuning be learned at a school? Is a perfect ear necessary?

P. A. SCOVILLE

DEAR P. A.:

You need a "good ear" . . . not a perfect one . . . to become a piano tuner. The chief manner of schooling is through apprenticeship or working in a shop, repairing pianos. There are piano tuning schools throughout the country, however. A very good one is at Oberlin College in Oberlin, Ohio.

CY

DEAR CY:

Referring to your column on equal pay for women, I am bitter. This is because, having been a foreman on various jobs, I know there are few women who can or will produce as much as a man. The sooner they equalize the pay, the more jobs there will be for men. Employers won't want to hire a women when they can get a good male worker for the same money. Ask the female of the gender to think it over. I decline to sign my name for obvious reasons.

Phone Users Can Call Anywhere in Mainland U. S. for 90 Cents

After 9 p.m. Rate Reduced On Station-to-Station Calls

A decrease in rates after 9 p.m. for station-to-station long distance calls is the major effect of the long distance rate changes which became effective Thursday, April 4.

Manager Richard Van Sistine, of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., in clarifying the new rate schedule, said that a three-minute, station-to-station call placed after 9 p.m. now costs no more than 90 cents from Appleton to any other point in the continental United States.

Nationwide, a three-minute telephone call made after 9 p.m. between any two cities will cost a maximum of $1.

The new reduced rate, approved by the Federal Communications Commission, affects more than 820,000 customers in Wisconsin.

60-Cent Reduction

Interstate calls made station-to-station after 9 p.m. from Wisconsin will be reduced as much as 60 cents. For example, a three-minute telephone call made from Appleton to New York, at station-to-station rates after 6 p.m., cost $2.15. Under the new rates, the same call made after 9 p.m. will cost 70 cents. This same call to San Francisco which previously cost $1.50 now costs 90 cents.

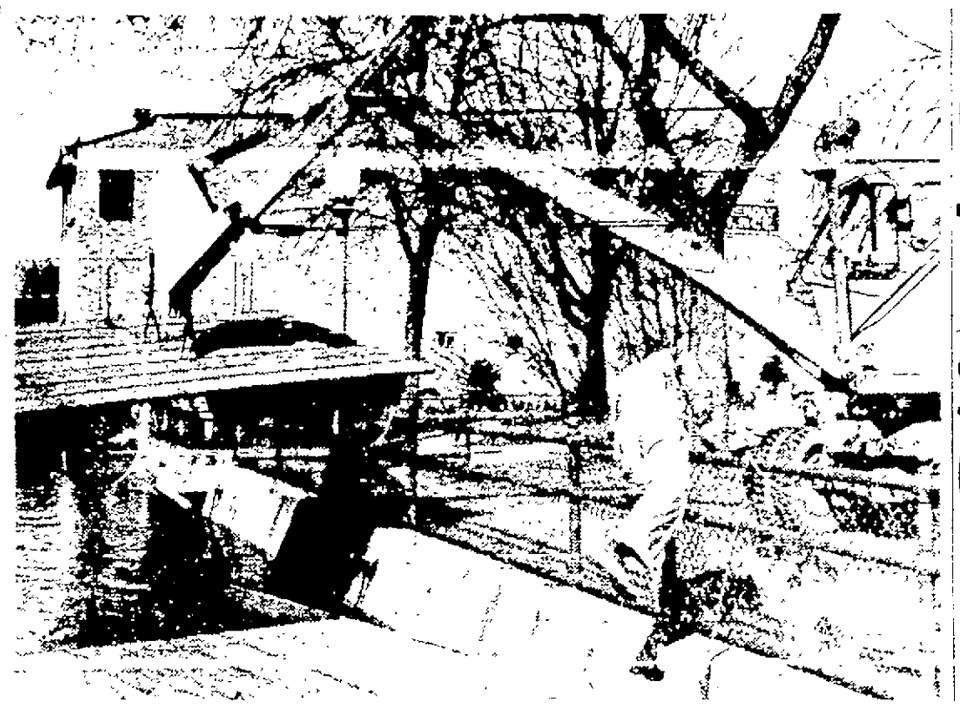

The new schedule also affects "overtime" charges for each minute after the initial three minutes. The rates decrease in proportion to the new cost for the initial rate. For example, charges for the call between Appleton and New York will decrease from 30 cents for each additional minute to 26 cents. For the San Francisco call, the cost for each additional minute was reduced from 40 cents to 25 cents.

Some Calls Higher

Minor changes in interstate person-to-person calls will result in an increase of 5 to 10 cents on calls of less than 890 miles. For example a person-to-person call from Appleton to New York at daytime rates was increased from $2.10 to $2.20 for the first three minutes. Person-to-person calls to San Francisco were not affected because the distance is more than 800 miles.

The FCC announcement, in effect, creates three schedules of rates on interstate station-to-station calls: day rate (4:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.), evening rate (6 p.m. to 9 p.m. plus Sundays and holidays), and the new rate (9 p.m. to 4:30 a.m.

This "After 9" rate has been in effect on an intrastate basis since Sept. 21, 1957. Under this plan, created by the Wisconsin Telephone Co., a three minute station-to-station call costs 45 cents or less while 10 minutes cost 75 cents or less.

The New London Street Department crew Thursday performed its yearly spring task by lowering 75 feet of public boat docks into the Wolf River at Taft Park. The docks are owned by the Chamber of Commerce and maintained by the city. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Conservation Unit To Spend $500,000

Expenditures Okayed for Land Purchases; Chairman Gives Warning on Program

POYNETTE — The Wisconsin Conservation Commission Friday approved expenditures of nearly $500,000 for land purchases and heard its chairman sound a stern warning that the state is heading for trouble in its land acquisition program.

Guido Rahr, Manitowac, strongly intimated the commission and department should change its system of land purchase or "future commissions will be so overburdened with expenses they will be unable to meet them unless new sources of revenue are found."

The problem, in Rahr's view, is that once the public knows the department intends to develop a particular parcel of land, values on the property skyrocket. He noted, particularly, that land values jumped 60 per cent in the Kettle Moraine State Forest once the department began to develop it.

"I think the commission and the department should see," Rahr said, "that projects all ready started are completed. Then we should do something about exercising control over the purchases program."

He questioned present policy in which the department buys a parcel of land and indicates its desire to develop the area. "You can see by what happened in Kettle Moraine what the situation is when the public knows the conservation department is going into an area after land," he said.

Among the expenditures approved was $34,000 for a total 841 acres in the Navarino Marsh wildlife area.

Purchased were 321 acres from Fred and Ruth Holmes, Clintonville, for $11,000; 20 acres from Richard and Joanne Peterson, Jr., Green Bay, $400; 75 acres from Harvey and Elsie Schmelke, Bonduel, $3,500 and 425 acres from Fred and Victoria Schultz, Shawano $19,000.

Poygan Marsh Increased

The Poygan Marsh wildlife area was increased by a 10 acre gift from Mr. and Mrs. John H. Boyson, Jr. Fremont, and by a 28 acre purchase from Fred and Myrtle Smoody, Poy Sippi, for $1,260.

The Brillion Marsh in Calumet County was increased through two purchases: 99 acres from Mac Bannard, Brillion, $1,650 and 80 13 acres from John and Hattie Fuhrmann, Iron River, $2,000.

The commission confirmed expenditures previously approved of $106,000 for a toilet - marina-concession building, park shelter building, public bathhouse and other improvements at High Cliff State Park.

Rahr, in his remarks concerning land acquisition, said the commission, through the department, should prepare a projection which will show what funds will be available through the 1-cent cigarette tax plus a full projection of planned programs and then institute control over purchase projects.

2 Take Jobs On Board

Hortonville Hears License Complaint From Salvage Dealer

HORTONVILLE — Two newly elected village board trustees, Milton Fannin and Irving Brelsford, were sworn in at a board meeting Thursday night. The two new members will replace Leonard Buchman and Clair Poole, who were defeated in Tuesday's election.

President Ray Warner, who was re-elected for a second term, commended the outgoing members for the fine job while serving the village.

Donald Bennett, operator of Bennett Body Shop and Salvage Yard, appeared before the board and protested a salvage yard license fee which the board recently had set. He said he felt the $100 annual fee was unfair. He was told by the board it had arrived at the $100 fee after consulting the League of Municipalities. The same type of license fee in other communities runs from $100 to $300, the board told him.

The board also granted a building permit to Milton Cellar for construction of a house and raised the salary of the village attorney from $31.25 per month to $50 per month.

September Set As Paving Time For Highway

County Trunk D Grading to Begin During Summer

NEW LONDON — Waupaca County will not begin blacktopping County Trunk D until after Labor Day, according to a report given to the council Thursday night by Arthur Gesse, street superintendent.

Gesse told the council the board of public works had met with both the Waupaca County Highway Commissioner and the Outagamie County Highway Commissioner about the project. Waupaca County will cut the road down to the proper grade level so the city can get its underground work in and install curb and gutter on the portion of the highway within the city limits.

County Trunk D is the county line between Waupaca and Outagamie counties.

For maintenance purposes, Waupaca County takes care of the half just north of the city, and Outagamie County maintains the other half of the highway. Waupaca County had agreed to cut down and improve the highway maintained by it, but Outagamie County still has not set a date when it would begin its half of the project.

Outagamie County purchased right of way in its county so Waupaca County could begin work.

CLINTONVILLE — The annual heart fund drive netted $962, according to Mrs. Howard Hundertmark, city chairman. The drive closed March 26.

Mayor Asks Road Noise Be Studied

NEW LONDON — Complaints on noise from trucks traveling Wyman Street still are being received, Mayor Wilmer Schlafer told the common council Thursday.

He asked that the board of public works take the problem under serious consideration.

The city has been receiving complaints about noise since Wyman became a truck route about a year ago. Last year Waupaca County agreed to surface the street with blacktop to cut down noise. No progress has yet been made.

Ald. Oscar Zuege said there are three entrances into the city from the south and only one on the north. He said the city bears more complaints from the people on Wyman Street than from citizens in the northern portion of the city.

Body of Youth Found in River

The body of Victor LeBlanc, 19, Lawrence College student from Elgin, Ill., missing since Jan. 21, was found in the Fox River shortly before noon Friday.

Positive identification of the body was made early this afternoon by Lawrence Dean of Men Kenneth VanderBush and Alan Manson, Madison, LeBlanc's roommate. The body was clad in faded blue jeans, a blue sweatshirt and was shoeless. A silver watch was on the left wrist.

Death was caused by suffocation due to drowning and was apparently a suicide, Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps has ruled.

Found by Boys

Two young fishermen, Dennis Everson, 13, 825 E. John St., and Douglas Copeland, 12, 1303 W. Prospect Ave., found the body about 11:40 a.m. The youths told police the body was not in the spot they found it when they began fishing at 8:30 a.m. The body may have floated in from midstream. The body was found about two blocks south of E. John Street on the Western Condensing shoreline.

Douglas was the first to spot the body about four feet offshore. At first, he said, he thought it was a dummy, "but then I saw his hands," he said. The boys dropped their fishing poles and went to the Western Condensing Co., and reported what they had found. Police were notified.

Clad in Sweatshirt

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said the blue sweatshirt found on the body may be a college sweatshirt with the Lawrence College emblem. A close examination of the sweatshirt showed that some writing had been on the front of the shirt at one time, but was obliterated.

LeBlanc was a pre-dentistry student at Lawrence College. He left the campus sometime before his 1:30 p.m. class Jan. 21. College officials said the student had been faced with "seemingly insurmountable personal problems."

A widespread search for the student was undertaken by local police agencies. The FBI listed a missing person report. Leads on the student's disappearance came from as far away as California.

LeBlanc left behind all his winter clothing, his personal belongings, a bank book showing a small balance in an Elgin bank, his two winter coats and his shaving equipment.

The youth's disappearance was the talk of the campus for about 10 days. Groups of students aided police in searching the campus buildings and along the ice-clogged Fox River.

The son of an Elgin doctor, now dead, LeBlanc was a "B" average student. His mother is a graduate of Lawrence College.

The body was taken to the Brettschneider Funeral Home.

High Cliff Park Work Approved by State

Improvements Will Cost $82,500; 2 Shelters, Bathhouse, Concession Stand to be Built

New construction totaling $82,500 was approved for High Cliff State Park by the State Building Commission Thursday in Madison.

The Conservation Department request includes building a new bathhouse in the temporary lakeshore picnic area. The money for this project, $12,500, will come from the original High Cliff Forest Park Association funds which were offered to the Conservation Department for this purpose last June.

Conservation funds will pay the remaining $70,000 for the construction of two shelters, improvements to the marina, including a concession stand.

July Completion

According to Adam C. Remley, Appleton, president of the High Cliff Forest Park Association, work on the park improvement is to begin within the next 30 days and completed in time for a mid-July dedication. Officers of the park association conferred with Roman M. Koerpins, superintendent of forest and parks, last week in Appleton.

The two shelters, Remley believes, will be those projected in early plans for the park by the Conservation Department, one to be located on the bluff along the lower cliff road and the other to replace the former tavern building at High Cliff.

The building commission also approved construction of a new $125,000 headquarters building at Spooner and the transfer of $165,000 in banking trust funds for the purchase of temporary boilers at state colleges in Eau Claire, La Crosse and Stevens Point.

Protest Plan To Abandon '400' Trains

EAU CLAIRE (AP) — Northwestern Wisconsin residents, including educators, city officials, hospital authorities and resort owners contend that the proposed discontinuance by the North Western Road of its "400" passenger trains would work an economic hardship on the area.

The road operates two of its fast trains daily each way between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul with some stops in Wisconsin. It has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to drop the trains, contending it is losing $6,500 daily on their operations.

One of a series of hearings on the road's aplication was held here Friday. Examiner Edmund T. Fritz continued the hearing until today after hearing 23 persons testify. More than 100 persons attended the session. Other hearings are scheduled next week at Madison and Milwaukee and Rochester, Minn.

Dr. William J. Micheels, president of Stout State College at nearby Menomonie; and Dr. Leonard Haas, president of Eau Claire State, testified that hundreds of students would have trouble getting to and from the school if the trains are discontinued.

Hospital officials at Menomonie, Chipewa Falls and Spooner said that their patients, nurses and employes depend on the trains.

Mayor J. C. Banks of Chetek said 87 resort owners of his area reported that about 1,600 guests use the "400" trains annually. Clifford Lue, of the Superior Association of Commerce said many tourists who come to his area use the trains for part of their trips.

Catholics Will Conduct Census On Religion

St. Therese Men to Visit All Homes in Northeast Appleton

A house - to - house religious census of northeast Appleton will be conducted by some 300 men of St. Therese Catholic Parish on Palm Sunday afternoon.

The purpose of the project is to enable St. Therese to make plans regarding future needs, particularly with reference to school enrollment and the contemplated new Catholic parish, which may be established within the next year.

The census sheets will be made available to the pastor of any church indicated by the householder.

3,000 Calls

Pairs of men will visit every residence in the area running from W. Atlantic Street north along Richmond to Parkway, then east to Oneida and north again to Apple Creek Road and all the territory to the north and east of these limits. Preliminary estimates indicate more than 3,000 calls will be made in the three-hour period from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

Workers will return later to houses where residents were not home until every house has been covered in the census.

The project is sponsored by the Rev. Edward Wagner, St. Therese pastor, with Gene Birchler as general chairman. He is being assisted by Paul Schmidt, John Dwyer and Jack Martin. Fourty men have been appointed as co-captains responsible for the 20 sections into which the area has been divided.

Briefing Sessions

Identical briefing sessions for the census-takers were held in the St. Therese parish hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings.

"We were very gratified with the turn-out," Birchler said, "but we still can use a few volunteers. Any men interested in helping may call one of the committee members. A census is of little value if not really complete, and to accomplish this we need all the help we can get. We have asked the men to look upon this as a spiritual action for the Lord's cause, and one very suitable for the Lenten season."

Before starting out Sunday, all the men will gather in St. Therese School in 20 classrooms numbered to correspond to the 20 sections of the census. After obtaining their materials and last-minute instructions, the men will gather in the church to receive Father Wagner's blessing.

Fact Gathering

Birchler emphasized the census is simply a matter of fact-gathering and in no way will involve proselytism.

The men will ask only the names and religious affiliations of those who are not Catholics. In Catholic homes, they will ask more extensive information on such things as sacraments received by members of the family and church groups to which they belong.

Once the census is completed, permanent block captains will be appointed to welcome newcomers and keep the census up to date.

In the past, students from Appleton have earned outstanding achievement certificates for their work at the camp.

LaVahn Maesch To Hold Summer Choral Workshop

LaVahn Maesch, director of the Lawrence Conservatory of Music has been named to conduct a choral workshop Aug. 4-10 at The Clearing, Ellison Bay.

The session is part of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau's annual series of summer classes and seminars held at the Door County retreat.

Participants at the workshop will include choral directors, teachers, singers, students and interested amateur musicians. Maesch will guide them in reading sessions, and studies of music literature, rehearsal techniques and choral music for school and church.

The Clearing, built by architect Jens Jensen in 1935, is operated by the Farm Bureau "to provide a tranquil meeting place for the minds of rural and urban people . . . in a setting of closeness to the soil and nature."

Freedom Is Host

Students Earn Awards At Music Festival

FREEDOM — Freedom High School music department played host to the Little Nine Conference Solo and Ensemble District Music Festival.

Schools participating were Omro, Winneconne, Shiocton, Stockbridge, Hortonville, Wrightstown, Denmark, Reedsville, Hilbert, Freedom and Bear Creek. About 450 students participated.

Students entered the festival in Class A, B, or C, and 1, 2, 3, 4, or 5 ratings were awarded in each class.

Although Freedom students did not receive any A-1 ratings they received one "B" rating and two "C" ratings in the solo events. In the ensemble events they received one "C" rating.

In a vocal solo, Betty Appleton received a Class B first place rating. In a saxophone solo, Karen Fehrman received a first place Class C rating, and Mary Pat Byrne received a Class C first rating in her bass clarinet solo. Mary Pat, a junior, had to make a change, and had only one week to prepare her winning solo.

In the ensemble competition, Freedom's brass choir received a superior rating in Class C. Those playing cornets were Arden Fiestadt, Jean Calmes, Linda Burt and Mary Van Camp; trombones: Janice Murphy and Ed Gonnering; baritone: Lloyd Egert; bass: Bill Byrne and Carlyton Schuh; French horn: Donna Henrricks and Sheryl Techlin. Second place in Class C went to Lloyd Eggert and Arden Fiestadt for their baritone duet. Second place winners in Class C also were the horn quartet which included Donna Hendricks, Sheryl Techlin, Geraldene Green and Josephine Cornelius.

Second place in Class C went to the "Tomorrow Land" triple trio which included Eynonne Denny, Jean Evers, Jean Murphy, Linda Daul, Betty Vanden Hoogen, Lois Smudde, Judy Vander Berg, Sharon Romenesko and Shirley Vandenhey. Also second place winner in Class C was the "Unto Thee Group" with students Virginia Kramer, Betty Peterson, Lois Van Dyke, Lorna Kamke, Dorothy Voeks, Mary Dolan, Grace Randerson and Jean Evers.

Receiving second place in Class B were a French horn duet with students Donna Hendricks and Sheryl Techlin, and a flute clarinet duet with Mary Pat Byrne and Sheryl Techlin.

All students will receive medals for participating in these events.

Bernard Kiel, band director at Freedom High School, was festival manager.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

(AP Newsfeatures)

"And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him . . ."

Luke 23:33

There Have Been many, many Calvaries. There have been followers of the antichrist in each succeeding generation who have crucified Him. Each crucifixion, as the first, bears witness to eternal love, eternal life, through the power of faith.

Altar in Center

Catholic Parish Plans To Build Round Church

BY BOB HARING

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—A church that was born in a barn is going full cycle.

That does not mean, however, that St. Pius X Roman Catholic Church is returning to the barn where its congregation first began meeting eight years ago. Rather, it means that Pius X is building a dramatically different church—a full circle.

The new building will be sort of a "church in the round," somewhat similar to "theater in the round" arenas. The altar will be in the center of the building, with pews in semicircles so that no parishoner will be more than 50 feet from it.

A small segment of the circle will be sliced off to set apart a small chapel for morning Masses, Novena devotions, small weddings and other ceremonies.

The choir will be seated in front of a low stone screen helping set apart the small chapel. It will be the only area in back of the altar.

The pulpit will be in front of the choir area.

Glass At Entrance

The only glass in the building except for some stained glass windows in the roof area, will be at the entrance.

"The building will have features people like," says the Rev. G. Edward Phee, founding pastor of Pius X, "such as shrines." He likes a church "to seem a warm, welcoming place."

The barn which was the first meeting place has been extensively remodeled, but now is hopelessly small for the 600-family parish. The new building will have seating for 800 persons. Father Phee hopes to have his flock moved in to the new quarters by Christmas.

Fox Valley Needs 4-Year UW Campus

MILWAUKEE (AP)—There is an indicated need for adding four-year campuses of the University of Wisconsin in the Racine-Kenosha area and the Green Bay-Fox Valley area, University President Fred Harrington said Friday.

Harrington's statement was contained in a report made to university regents on the progress of a study on extending university facilities.

"Clearly, the more immediate need for junior senior university offerings is in the Racine-Kenosha area," Harrington said. "I feel that similar opportunities later should be made available in the Green Bay-Fox Valley area."

He said he had received requests from citizens in Whitewater and Oshkosh that state colleges located there be turned into four-year university branches.

"We do not believe that such a change would be desirable," Harrington said. "In our study of possible locations for additional junior-senior university work, we are anxious to serve areas not now adequately served by public institutions."

Moravians Plan Holy Week Rites

FREEDOM — A series of five special services devoted to the reading of the story of the Passion of Jesus have been scheduled at Freedom Moravian Church for Holy Week.

Services will be at 8 p.m. with reading of the events of the last week in the life of Jesus.

The final service of the series is on Good Friday with communion. There are two services Good Friday, one at 2 and the other at 8 p.m.

Green Bay Cheese

GREEN BAY (AP)—One car of state brand pasteurized single daisies sold at 34¾ cents, the same price as the previous level, in very light trading at the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange Friday.

No bids were left unfilled at close of trading. An offer of 2 cars state brand cheddars at 34 was left uncovered.

Reynolds Denies Industry Hurt By Tax Climate

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds said Friday that despite statements to the contrary, Wisconsin's tax climate is favorable for industry.

Reynolds, referring to a statement made by the American Motors Corp., which criticized he governor's tax program, said, "We should judge men by what they do and not what they say. AMC is expanding in the stae."

Speaking at a news confeence, Reynolds said that the Democrat's "terrible defeat" in the Rock County election has not altered his opposition to a sales tax for Wisconsin.

The governor openly admitted that Arnold Wikum's defeat in the special Assembly election was a repudiation of his program, but he still held to the belief that an income tax increase is the best way for Wisconsin to raise revenue.

Wikum was defeated by more than a 2 to 1 vote by Republican Mrs. Carolyn Blanchard, widow of the late Assembly Speaker, David Blanchard.

Asked about his plans for reelection, Reynolds said that the governorship is "the best job I ever had." He added that "five or six more Rock counties" might change his plans.

College Choir To Sing at FVL

Minnesota Group to Give Varied Concert Program April 13

The choir of Dr. Martin Luther College, New Ulm, Minn., will present a concert at Fox Valley Lutheran High School at 8 p.m. Saturday, April 13.

About 70 young people are selected for the choir from a student body of about 300. They are under the leadership of Prof. Meilahn Zahn, former director of the Michigan Lutheran Seminary chorus, which has appeared in the Fox Cities.

Two former students of Fox Valley Lutheran High School are with the choir this year. They are Miss Anita Lemke, Green leaf, and David Pingel, 213 W. Glendale Ave.

Varied Selections

The concert program will include varied selections of motets, anthems and chorales of the Lutheran Church. One of the numbers will be a setting of the childrens' song, "I Am Jesus' Little Lamb." A group of children from St. Paul Lutheran School, Appleton, are rehearsing in preparation for joining the choir in this arrangement.

The students at Dr. Martin Luther College, are preparing for the teaching ministry in the Wisconsin Synod. Upon graduation, they will serve their congregations as teachers, organists and choir directors. Their training, leading to a bachelor of science in education degree, also includes a complete course in church music.

A free will offering will be taken at the concert.

The choir also will present concerts at St. Peter Church, Weyauwega, at 10:15 a.m. Easter Sunday, April 14, and at Trinity Church, Berlin, at 3 p.m. Easter Sunday.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

For 40 years I lined my cake pans with double thicknesses of brown paper. Recently I have used aluminum foil for lining and find it better. The paper-lined cakes usually had a burnt crust but I have yet to find one burned that was lined with foil.

Heloise

As most of my children are married I find that regular cake pans are too large so I save one-pound coffee cans and make my cakes in these. After baking and cooking I wash and reline the tins with fresh foil and put the lids on and they keep beautifully until ready to use for baking again.

A. Cessawese

Ladies! I just took six one-pound coffee cans and a box of ready prepared cake mix (adding one-fourth cup of salad oil) and baked the cutest cakes you've ever seen.

And here's another idea I came across after being too tired to ice them today . . .

I removed the cakes from four of the coffee cans and stacked them—one on top of the other—with a piece of foil between each—and taped the lid back on the coffee can! I then put them in my deep freeze.

This not only saves foil but keeps the frost off my homemade cake, takes up less room in my deep freeze, and I can spot exactly what it is because I labeled on the top "chocolate cake" with a felt marker.

When icing these cakes if you are one who has a very sweet tooth you can take a knife and cut each layer cross-wise again. Thus removing one, two, or even three layers of cake and ice between each layer.

Here's something else I found out: never remove just two layers of this cake when icing one cake. Why not ice two at the same time and put it back in the deep freeze? Then the next time you want cake all you have to do is remove the cake, let it thaw and eat. Most icing recipes call for enough batter to ice an entire cake. Therefore half recipes—so I find—are hard to make.

Love,

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Like many parents with small children we have two television sets. One for the children's room and one for the living room.

The old TV set works fine but with its brown plastic case it made a drab ornament. We hit on the idea of covering it with adhesive paper. The nice part about it is: When you tire of the design it can easily be peeled off and a new design applied.

One design I saw on this type paper recently, had little children's characters on a white background. This would be adorable for a small child's room.

Mrs. Gerald Corcoran

Dear Heloise:

I clean my kid gloves with an art eraser. It will work on any color or any combination of colors without harm.

Mrs. O. Kelly

Dear Heloise:

When I wash baby hats and bonnets made of nylon, from infant size on up, I put them on appropriate size canisters to dry. They are easy to shape and dry quickly.

Dear Heloise:

When sewing on a button always put a straight pin across the top of it then sew the button on. Remove the pin before winding the thread between the material and the back of the button.

This amount of ease in the thread will keep the material from puckering and pulling. For coat buttons and heavier items, I use a skewer or a matchstick.

Queen Lead Correct for This Hand

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Many of the best bridge plays are developed on a staircase rather than at the bridge table. You are walking up the stairs on your way home when you suddenly think of the play you should have made a couple of hours earlier.

When this sort of hand is actually played, East wins the first trick with the ace of spades and returns the queen of spades at the second trick. All very normal, isn't it?

Also all very wrong. South wins with the king of spades, leads a club to dummy, and returns the queen of diamonds for a finesse.

West takes the king of diamonds but cannot defeat the contract. He can get one additional spade trick but South has nine tricks as soon as he regains the lead.

Light Dawns

The light dawns on East much later. The next day he can discuss the hand at lunch with his cronies. "My partner led the four of spades and you can see that my correct play was to play the queen. I dare say many people would have been careless enough to play the ace of spades."

East hasn't actually fibbed. He hasn't said that he played the queen himself. And he is right in saying that the queen is the correct play.

If South wins with the king of spades, West leads another spade to the ace on being given his diamond trick. East then leads his low spade, and West has three more spade tricks.

If South refuses the first trick, East continues with the ace of spades and then his low spade. This sets up West's suit, and the king of diamonds enables him to cash his tricks later on.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one No Trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player doubles. You hold S-10 8 5 4 2; H-Q 4; D-K 8 2; C Q 10 9. What do you say?

Answer: Redouble. Your side has at least 23 points, and the opponents have only 17 points at most. You should be able to punish the opponents at almost any contract.

DESIGNER PATTERN

Charles Montaigne

NS-302 DRESS $1.00
NS-303 JACKET $1.00

It's a madly feminine spring and Charles Montaigne's charming costume is very much "in," having made fashion headlines when the original was shown in bright navy wool, its jacket reversing to crisp buttoned-on white piqué—a most refreshing approach to the new season, a most practical arrangement for spic 'n' span care.

A curved dart arches over the dropped shoulder, forming a loose edged tuck on top. Its collar winging softly away from the throat, the jacket opens unto a self-sufficient little dress that has an artful way of turning a figure into a slim column. The shapely bodice is squared high at the neck and buttoned in back, its slim skirt silhouette is eased across the front with feathery shirring.

Other fabric suggestions for the outfit are solid colored silk or rayon faille or crepe, flax or silk linen, sharkskin or cotton brocade contrasted with a gay print or a coordinated color or shade. Our separate patterns offer the advantage of ordering different sizes in dress and jacket if necessary. From these corresponding body measurements elect the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Your Problems

Quiet Girls! Suspected Neighbor May Make Best Coffee in Block

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been elected by our neighborhood coffee-breakers to write you this letter.

Landers

A woman who lives on our street is really a lovely person. She is in her early 30's, attractive and the mother of four children.

Every day around lunch time the milkman stops at her house and stays anywhere from 30 minutes to an hour. His truck is parked right in her driveway all this time. Those of us who know her are sure this woman has high moral standards and is a faithful wife, but we are afraid the less-trusting neighbors may get the wrong impression.

Shall we talk to her and risk losing her friendship? Or shall we keep our snoots out of it and let her ruin her reputation and hurt her family? — The Loyalettes

Dear Loyalettes: Keep your snoots out of it. It may be that the milkman is a family friend and it may be that this woman makes the best coffee in the neighborhood.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As one of your publishers I must disagree with one of your editors. I refer to the letter signed C. W. who objected to boys helping their mothers in the kitchen. The editor said kitchen work is for females.

As you so aptly put it, Ann work knows no gender today. We have four boys in our family and it is clearly understood that they have to help with the "female" work because they cause so much of it.

Our boys have never objected to helping. They just grew up knowing it was expected of them. They are not mama's boys, nor do they show any signs that they will turn out to be "yes men" to women. Instead they are all-around kids who will be able to pitch in and help in any emergency.

You may print this as evidence that the members of the fourth estate are divided on this vital point in boy-raising. — R. G. K.

Dear R.G.K.: I'm not sure I enjoy being caught in the cross-fire between an editor and a publisher yet, but I appreciate your support of my point of view. Thank you for writing.

Your Problem Girl, Ann Landers

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My fiance and I are going to be married in June. It will be a formal wedding and my parents are going to a great deal of expense to make it elegant and perfect in every detail.

My fiance is giving me a little trouble on the guest list. While he was in college he worked summers on a truck. He became friendly with three roughneck truck drivers who are not his social equals. (This is an understatement.)

My fiance insists that we invite these three characters to our wedding. I can't seem to talk him out of it. It's not that I am ashamed of them, Ann, it's just that I'm afraid they would be uncomfortable. They surely do not own formal evening clothes and I'd hate to put them to the expense of buying anything.

Since the bride's parents pay for the wedding I feel he should not make too many demands. Please settle this. — Fly in the Soup

Dear Fly: Even though the bride's parents pay for the wedding the bride and groom have to live together after the guests go home and it helps if they are on speaking terms.

Invite the truck drivers and don't worry about the expense of the evening clothes. They'll probably rent — like many of your fancier guests. P.S. They'll probably behave better, too.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Math Program Is Explained

KAUKAUNA—A new math program to be instituted in Catholic Schools in the Green Bay diocese for the 1963-64 school year was explained recently to members of the Home-School Association of Holy Cross School by Sister Marie Gertrude, principal of St. Peter and Paul School, Green Bay.

Sister Gertrude told how the teacher will explain the "why" of mathematics and the students determine the "how." "Teach the structure of mathematics to the child and you force the child to think," stated the speaker. New textbooks are to be introduced into grades one through four and grade seven.

The new math concept has been tested and developed over a 10-year period in various schools with highly satisfactory results, indicated the speaker. She explained the method and presentation of math under the new concept.

Mrs. Bernard Busse was named chairman of a nominating committee and will be assisted by Clifford Weyers, Mrs. Alice Mach, Mrs. Gene Vande Hey and James Gustman. Members were reminded to attend a science fair to be staged by grade school students Sunday.

Robert Bootz, chairman of the athletic committee, reported on a recent basketball tournament. Other committee reports were given. Attendance award went to the first grade taught by Sister Barbara.

Baton Twirlers In Kaukauna to Present Revue

KAUKAUNA — The recreation department sponsored baton twirling class students will present their annual "Spectacle of Batons" at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the Kaukauna High School gym.

The event formerly was staged in conjunction with the dance revue, but large enrollment this year resulted in a change of plans. Over 80 students are to demonstrate skills acquired over the winter.

Sixteen acts are planned for the program, many to be of a western motif, according to Mrs. David Nagan, instructor. Tickets are available from class members.

Driverless Vehicle Hits Traffic Signal

KAUKAUNA — A runaway car owned by Clinton Ashford, 603 Polk St., Green Bay, broke a traffic light standard at Wisconsin Avenue and Lawe Street about noon Wednesday.

According to police, the car was parked at the curb on Wisconsin when it rolled backward, went through an intersection and hit the standard. Damage to the car was slight and no one was injured.

This was the second runaway car in the block this week Tuesday, an alert pedestrian ran into the street, jumped into a moving car and steered it onto a service station platform.

It's Time to Do Spring Chores

Although the vagaries of the weather in Wisconsin at this time of year should not cause any undue optimism that spring has finally arrived, it still is that time of year when everyone's thoughts are turned to spring cleanup. This applies to householders, particularly the wives, as most husbands still attuned to the somewhat slower pace of the winter season are well aware.

Winters have the peculiar quality of leaving in their wake a considerable amount of dirt and debris. This is particularly noticeable in streets and on sidewalks and in alleys in what can be roughly described as the business section of the city. As the spring winds blow, the dirt and debris is flung here and there but never seems to leave the area. The condition is not going to go away by itself, and we are sure that the city fathers have issued orders for the attack.

The importance of a clean business area cannot be understated. It can be accomplished only through constant reminders and concerted action by both the city and those who tenant the various business establishments. Spring, with nature coming into the finery which bestirs hopes and feelings of well-being in humans, should be a good springboard for a little extra effort to remove the dirt and debris which are ugly reminders of the rugged winter.

But spring should not be the end of efforts to keep the city clean. It is just as important to carry the "Keep the City Clean" program through the months of summer and fall and perhaps even winter although to do so in the cold, snowy season is a much tougher job. Housewives have the right idea when they start their spring housecleaning although their husbands may be reluctant to admit it. In the case of homes, too, the intensive cleanup of spring is followed by less strenuous although just as important cleaning thereafter. All business sections of the city could well be guided by the average householders' activity. A clean city is no less important than a clean house and yard, but it will come only as the result of continued efforts and cooperation. Cleanliness is another plus value which the city can point to with pride in addition to the many others with which it is blessed.

The U.S. in the Year 2000

A privately supported research agency has spent five years studying what the United States will be like at the turn of the 21st century and has come up with some startling figures and predictions. And after all the year 2000 is only 37 years away.

Total national output, now around $560 billion a year, will have exceeded one trillion by 1980 and will then double to more than two trillion by 2000. Spendable income of the middle family, after taxes, now about $5,000, will rise to $11,000.

There will be 244 million autos plying the streets and highways. Some may be auto-planes.

Yet the researchers see no shortages of any major resource except land. There will be plenty of cropland to produce food, but land may become scarce for homes, businesses, travel and recreation for a population of 331 million versus today's 188 million Americans.

Science has already solved shortage problems of other national resources like fuel. But water, particularly its quality, may be a problem.

It's going to be an interesting 37 years.

A Full Planning Team

Almost unnoticed in the hubbub over who won in Tuesday's elections were three far-reaching decisions which gave a multiple shot in the arm to orderly development of the Fox Valley area.

Electors in the Town of Grand Chute and the Town of Menasha decided they wanted to continue membership in the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission. Residents of the Town of Harrison said, "Count us in."

Those votes for planning constituted a win for all residents of all the Fox Valley region, for trying to plan on a regional basis with only partial participation is a little like trying to field a football team without a right guard or left end. You can get by, but your chances of success certainly are diminished.

Those closely involved with regional planning are pleased, of course, to have the Town of Harrison on their team. And they are no less happy about the Grand Chute decision to stick with it despite the fact that some residents—and not without cause—feel that concrete results of all the planning talk have been a bit slow in making their appearance.

But the big triumph for planning on election day came in the Town of Menasha—the most urban and most populated town in the commission, and strategically situated near the geographical center of the area served by the planning unit.

There the voters not only authorized the town board to stay with the commission for another two years but they put a new man on the board whose main campaign issue was continued membership in the regional planning commission.

The vote of the people was an expression of confidence in their leaders who have worked long and hard to bring regional planning through the first perilous years when progress is slow and the goal often appears beyond reach.

But that is the way with long-range planning. The basic idea is to do now the things that need to be done to avoid major —and sometimes by then unsolvable — problems in the future. Sometimes the immediate accomplishments seem nebulous, but they are real nonetheless.

One of the major problems at hand is setting aside on municipal maps land for the future thoroughfares system. Delay can only make the project more difficult and more costly. As the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission moves from the dressing room strategy talks onto the field, it is good to have a full team in uniform.

Canadian Election Could be Another Deadlock

By The Associated Press

Canadian elections have not generally been much of a spectator sport for Americans south of the border. This one is.

For the Canadian election April 8 for the House of Commons is in a way a direct referendum on how Canadians feel about the United States. A central issue in the campaign and in the political upheaval that caused disbandment of the last parliament has been whether Canada should accede to American pressure and accept atomic weapons for its air forces.

Regardless of the heat and interest developed in the election the results could well leave the situation just as it was last winter with no party holding a majority. And the new government will inherit some formidable and familiar problems.

It could be right back where the government stood after the last general election on June 18, 1962.

PEARSON LEADS LIBERAL RALLY

On that day the Liberals, led by Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, surged back to capture 100 seats in the 265-seat House of Commons, taking away from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Progressive-Conservatives the greatest majority in Canada's parliamentary history. The Tories faded from 208 seats to 116 (see map), and while it was still the leading party it now lacked a majority.

Diefenbaker was able to remain in power only by the support of the 30 Social Credit Party members. With a minority government Diefenbaker was hardly prepared to launch a major attack on the many problems besetting the nation.

The most publicized of these persisting problems is the decision Canada will have to make about allowing its air forces to be armed with U.S. nuclear warheads to fulfill its commitments to NATO and the North American Air Defense Command.

It was the division of opinion on this issue, prodded by a blunt declaration from the U.S. State Department urging the Canadians to honor their commitments, that helped cause the Feb. 6 downfall of Diefenbaker's government.

While Diefenbaker had postponed final decision on nuclear arms for Canada, the Liberals were reassessing their position and Pearson came around to believing Canada must accept the weapons.

Diefenbaker charged the U.S. with "unwarranted intrusion" in Canadian affairs. His election campaign has been waged on an open anti-American platform hoping to strike a widespread response among large groups of Canadians.

FOREIGN CONTROL BLAMED

For Canada's weak economic condition is often blamed by its citizens on foreign ownership or control of more than 60 per cent of its manufacturing, almost 75 per cent of its mining, and 80 per cent of its oil and gas industries.

A persistent problem is Canada's continuing unfavorable balance of trade. Lately the deficit resulting from Canada's overseas buying of more than it sells has been running close to $1 billion a year. About half of the deficit stems from money going out of the country in the form of interest and dividends to foreign investors, mainly American. This doesn't help Canadian feelings of unhappiness living next door to the world's richest country.

Another issue in Canada is the growing discontent of 5½ million French-speaking citizens. This is especially evident in Quebec province where the French-Canadian population is centered. Premier Jean Lesage has come out for Pearson but the Socreds have their main strength in Quebec. The Liberals must hold on to their seats there and add more, if they are to win a Parliamentary majority.

The French-Canadians claim they are treated as second-class citizens and are demanding fairer representation in federal civil service positions and in private business.

French nationalism has been exploited by the Social Credit Party, which now bears little resemblance to the original party that flourished in Alberta in the 1930s. It then advocated monthly payments called dividends to all Canadians and issuance of paper money to wipe out national debts. The Socreds soared from obscurity before the 1962 election. Its 30 seats gave it a balance of power in the last Parliament.

CAOUETTE REAL LEADER

Socred party leader is Robert N. Thompson, a former missionary and chiropractor from Alberta. But the real spokesman is the fiery deputy party leader, Real Caouette, a Quebec automobile salesman, who grasped the nationalistic sentiment as a vote-getting issue in '62. It may be that the Socreds will come out of this election with an even larger number of Quebec's 75 seats than the 26 they won after the last election.

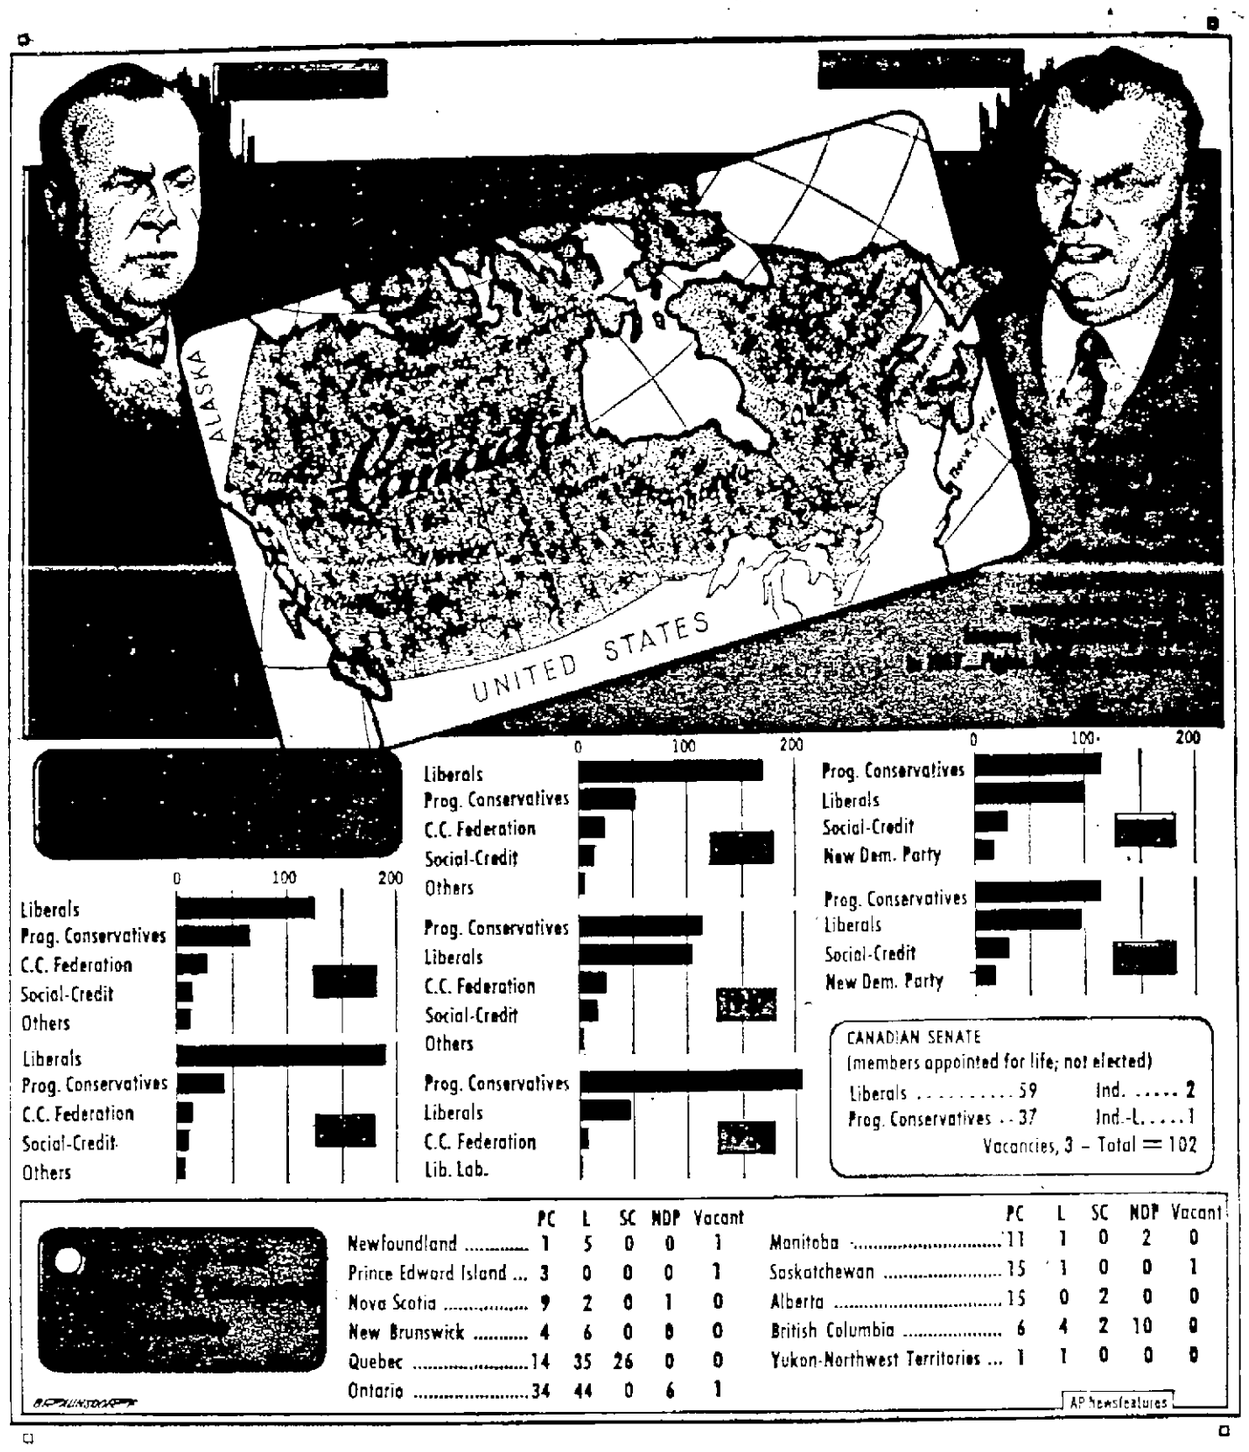

Opposite to the extreme right-wing Socreds is the New Democratic Party, successor to the socialist Commonwealth Cooperation Federation which also is originated in the western provinces. Its leader is the Rev. T. C. (Tommy) Douglas, former Socialist premier of Saskatchewan and father of Saskatchewan's medical care plan.

He is trying to convince voters the NDP is the only party clearly committed against nuclear weapons for Canada, and he hammers away for democratic planning by the government to bolster the economy and provide full employment. The unemployment problem threatens to grow worse as post-war babies come of age and start looking for jobs.

On Feb. 6 Pearson predicted the Liberals would win 175 seats in the House. The real contest for the Liberals will be in Quebec between the Liberals and the Socreds.

If Pearson wins, it will indeed be a feather in his cap, for in 1958 right after he took control of the Liberals they suffered the worst election defeat in the Party's history, retaining only 49 of the 105 seats it held in the previous Parliament. Since then Pearson, a Nobel Peace Prize winner and a former president of the U.N. General Assembly, has been working hard at turning himself from a diplomat into a politician.

The minority parties, who agree on only one thing, Canadian rejection of nuclear weapons for NATO forces and home defense, seem likely to draw votes from Canada's substantial anti-nuclear groups. So it could well be that the elections will produce still another minority government.

Wisconsin Report

Governor's Job in State Has Become Really Vulnerable One

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — In the continuing debate about the state financial crisis and the prospect that the spending pressure groups and the taxpayers will be disappointed when a compromise between the Republican legislature and the Democratic governor is finally worked out, there is a tendency to assume that the current situation is peculiar to Wisconsin.

Wyngaard

It needs to be emphasized in broad terms the Wisconsin state fiscal squeeze is typical of state governments around the country.

That state government which is not now struggling to make ends meet is an unusual one, and that governor and that legislature that confronts a comparatively easy balancing of accounts are happy ones, indeed.

The difference in Wisconsin, if any, is one of degree. The demands for spending increases, partly aided by Gov. Reynolds' liberal conceptions of need, are probably exceeding the production of the present revenue structure by a greater amount and ratio than in many other states.

The difference, more significantly, lies in the fact that two parties are struggling uncertainly for control here, and that they have diametrically opposed views of how to raise the new money that will be required when the budget settlement is made.

* * *

ELSEWHERE

Elsewhere in the country states have already commonly made the decision with which Wisconsin is struggling today — and may well continue to struggle for a long time. The question is one of broadening the tax base as a realistic concession to the fact of an immense broadening of the scope of public services. There are thousands of persons in Wisconsin today directly benefitting from costly state and local services — the latter also increasingly financed through the state tax system — who a generation ago would now be contributing rather than receiving.

The general sales tax is now the rule rather than the exception in the state financing of the country as a whole. A significant number of states already have a combination of sales and income taxes. Some of them, moreover, have less ambitious standards of necessary public expenditure than has Wisconsin, and surely less ambition than the levels proposed in the new gubernatorial budget presented by the Reynolds administration.

All this has changed the character of the governorship as a political office, as a useful survey of state financial problems in a current nationally circulated periodical points out. The governorship that was once the pinnacle of the local politician's dreams has become the most perilous and most difficult office in American politics.

It may be a long time in Wisconsin, indeed, before a man can win the governorship and remain two or three terms, as was once the case. The fire around him is today so hot, the pressures so great, the challenges so demanding, that it is a more vulnerable office than almost any that can be named.

* * *

EXAMPLES HERE

Gov. Reynolds has a quality of easy geniality that will serve in better stead than the personality of some of his predecessors. He doesn't worry easily. Yet he is a practical man, and he knows that his situation is as difficult and his prospects as tenuous as those of anyone who has held his office in a generation at least.

His two immediate predecessors had roughly similar experiences. Vernon Thomson spent a life-time rising to the governorship, and then lost it after a single term. Yet he went to congress two years later, and is now accounted as comfortable and happy as any man now serving there. Gaylord Nelson was the man who shot him out of his executive office seat, and promptly discovered that he had his own troubles. He had four of the most difficult years of his life, and when the time came to run against Sen. Wiley last fall, he hesitated not a moment. Even a doubtful challenge of a supposedly powerful incumbent looked more attractive than a third bid for an office which meant for him only hard work and worry.

The governorship has become the hot seat of American public life.

Looking Backward

An Incident in the Cars

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for April 1, 1863.

In a car on a railroad which runs into New York City a few mornings ago, a scene occurred which will not soon be forgotten by the witnesses of it.

A person dressed as a gentleman, speaking to a friend across the car, said:

"Well, I hope the war may last six months longer. If it does I shall have made enough to retire from business. In the last six months I've a hundred thousand dollars — six months more and I shall have enough."

A lady sat behind the speaker and necessarily overheard his remarks. When he was done she tapped him on the shoulder and said to him, "Sir, I had two sons — one of them was killed at the battle of Fredricksburg, the other was killed at the battle of Murfreesboro."

She was silent for a moment. So were all around who heard her. Then, overcome by her indignation, she suddenly slapped the speculator, first on one cheek, then the other. Before the fellow could say a word, the passengers sitting near him, who had witnessed the whole affair, seized him and pushed him hurriedly out of the car as one not fit to ride with decent people.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, April 2, 1938.

The greatest basketball team ever to represent Marion High School came to the end of the trail and the Class C state championship when it defeated Cuba City, 33 to 19, in the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association (WIAA) annual tournament at Madison. The other two state champions were Wausau for Class A and Shawano in Class B.

The Appleton Elks Eastern League bowling title went to the Notre Dame keglers, although not a one of the team was Irish — John M. Balliet, William J. Van Dyck, Art Gerharz, John E. Hantschel, E. J. Femal and Art Jones.

The Wisconsin bowling team took the Elks Big Ten bowling crown. The master bowlers in this league of the Appleton Elks season were Wallie Schultz, Nick Weber, Oscar Kunitz, Frank Fries, Dr. C. E. Schmidt, manager, and William Fries.

Martin Abraham was elected commander of New London's Learman-Schaller Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. He succeeded Leonard Borchardt, who was named post chaplain. Other officers included Martin Kubisiak, senior vice commander, Ralph Mortenson, junior vice commander, Arthur Lasch, surgeon, H. J. Young, judge advocate, and Eber Hartquist, quartermaster.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, April 4, 1953.

Wilmer "Wimp" Schultz put together games of 209, 204 and 244 for a 657 series in the Veterans League at the Arcade Alleys in Appleton. Schultz paced the bowlers in the league with two others topping the 600-mark, Ken Strutz with 615 and "Hooks" Pankratz with 607.

Champion basketball players in the Girls Athletic Association tournament at Washington High School, New London, included Luonne McDermott, captain, Janice Knuth, Carol Kroll, Rose Marie Ritchie and Sandra Walmer. The team played the entire tournament without a defeat, winning five games and tieing one.

James Kirby and Eldred Belonger were the two A forensic winners from Brillion High School eligible for the state contest in Madison.

Frank Smith was elected president Bowling Association. Other officers included Clifford Grossman, Potter Hutchinson, A. A. Stroschein and Leander Arndt, vice presidents, Norman Schoenick and Clarence Radtke, executive directors.

Alphand also told reporters that France favors an "expansionist" Europe rather than an "inward - looking" European organization. He declared that the French government had taken the lead among the six Common Market nations in promoting development of policies for lowering trade barriers between the Common Market and outside countries such as the United States.

The proposed "hot line" between Washington and Moscow was suggested by the United States as a way of providing high speed communication which might be useful in avoiding war by accident in some international crisis.

President Kennedy stressed the importance of such a link after last fall's Cuban showdown and U.S. officials were disappointed that the Soviet government had not picked up the idea more quickly. They were therefore pleased when the announcement was made Friday by Soviet Ambassador Semyon K. Tsarapkin at a meeting of the 17-nation Disarmament Conference in Geneva.

However, the Soviet move was not interpreted here as evidence of a policy shift which might bring new Kremlin offers on major east-west issues.

Rather U.S. officials said the installation of a direct wire should be considered simply as a practical step in the interest of both countries without involving important concessions by either.

Mental Depression Blamed For Many Farm Accidents

CHICAGO (AP) — Mental depression, caused by hard work and baffling frustrations of farm life, was blamed Saturday for the high rate of accidents on American farms.

Dr. Albert A. Lorenz of Eau Claire, Wis., and Dr. Samuel P. Leinbach of Belmond, Iowa, told 300 persons attending a national rural safety conference that mental depressions are common among Midwest farmers.

Dr. Lorenz, a psychiatrist, said there are areas where mental depression is almost native to the people.

"It is quite common in small farm areas where the farmer is struggling for his existence and has to work constantly, seven days a week," he said.

"On farms, depression is a contagious illness that goes on into the second and third generations. Father and son act alike. The son gets into the gruelling grind of hard work, doesn't know how to relax or enjoy himself."

Dr. Leinbach, a physician, said depression sometimes hits farmers faced with failure due to economic change. He said farmers also are forced to make planting decisions early in the season, then follow through on a crop even when he find he has planned unwisely.

"The farmer who becomes depressed because of these reasons is in an environment which allows him to withdraw from outside associations, often without attracting attention," the Iowa physician said.

"A man in this state is prone to accidents."

Attorney General Says State Funds for Symco Dam Unconstitutional

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Senate has been advised by Atty. Gen. George Thompson that a proposal to provide $50,000 to reconstruct Symco Dam in Waupaca County would be unconstitutional unless the structure and the entire shoreline were owned by the state.

Thompson said that works for the improvement of navigation ordinarily are prohibited by the constitution as works of internal improvement.

The only exception, he said, is creation of a dam and lake as part of a state park.

Head of Wisconsin Elections Division Named by Zimmerman

MADISON (AP) - The new head of the elections division in the Secretary of State's Office is Leo J. Fahey of Madison, a records clerk in the State Assembly.

Fahey succeeds Gaige Roberts, who retired Feb. 28 after holding the post more than 20 years. The appointment was announced Thursday by Secretary of State Robert Zimmerman.

Fahey was among three persons certified as eligible for the job by the State Bureau of Personnel. Others were Mrs. Esther Kaplan, personal secretary of U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson when he was governor, and A. E. Chase of Oregon.

Several State Groups Support County Government Reform Bill

Action Committeemen Tell of Those Appearing in Madison at Hearings

NEENAH — The president of the State League of Women Voters, among other state groups and group representatives, have gone on record as approving the Martin Bill on county government reform and county executive, according to Kenneth E. Davis, Twin City News Record Inc. President, as he commented at the Friday noon Winnebago County Action committee meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha.

The group met at the Valley Inn., where they heard reports on the bill, now in state legislative committee, by Robert Torgensen and Davis, both of the Winnebago County Action Committee of the Chamber.

Davis, who along with Torgensen attended the April 4 public hearing in Madison on the bill, said the stand came after much study.

Other groups either appearing in favor or reading their approval of the bill into the record at the hearing, included the Appleton Post-Crescent, from Outagamie County, the mayor of the city of Racine, Carl Baldwin of Appleton, Edward Conrad, Madison city attorney, appearing in favor representing the mayor of Madison, and representatives of the Green Bay Chamber of Commerce, WCAC members learned at the Friday meeting.

Thelen Opposes

Groups or representatives appearing at the Madison hearing speaking in opposition to the bill included Al Thelen, secretary of the Wisconsin County Board Association, who said he was definitely against the bill as it stands, according to Torgensen.

Davis added that Thelen has indicated that the association feels some form of county government reform is necessary.

Speaking on the association secretary's comments, Davis said "this opens the door of the county Board Association to their admitting some form of reform is needed. How is another question.

Some of us feel the Martin Bill does a pretty good job. If we do not have some sort of reform by 1975 or 1985, as the various areas in the state increase in size, the demand for reapportionment in county board representation will increase."

Various Problems

Torgensen said the Waukesha mayor indicated his opposition to the bill because it may take away the rural representation. He explained, however, he felt the rural areas of the state had various problems as could not be handled by any other government but the county board.

Davis said he along with many of the persons studying the bill felt that the bill "... in no way destroys the grass - roots system. The town board is still needed for many problems."

In answer to a question on whether the men attending the hearing formed any opinion as to whether the bill would be passed by the legislature, they both indicated they felt it would probably not, although "...some felt that some form of reform is needed", Davis said.

A related bill, the Quinn Bill, which calls for non-mandatory appointing of county executives, was also discussed, with the men reporting saying it would probably be passed if it came out of committee.

No Stand Taken

The WCAC, on the basis of questionnaires returned at the last meeting and discussion Friday, decided to go on record saying they will not stand either in favor or in opposition to the bill.

It was added that the committee felt some form of county government reform was needed.

The questionnaire, sent out recently to all WCAC members, asked a number of questions on the feelings of the members on the bill. The results, nine of which were received, showed no definite feelings of the members.

The committee Friday decided more study was needed on the entire reform matter, including studies being made of other states.

The next meeting of the WCAC was set for noon Friday, April 22.

Eastern Fires Unchecked in Some Regions

3 Perish in Flames; At Least 4 Others Killed by Storms

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A torrid swath of flames, crackling through dry woodland in spots from Maine to Georgia, threatened further death and destruction today.

High winds spurred the blazes Friday, helping to level a wooden firehouse in Athens, Maine, in 15 minutes. All but one piece of mobile fire equipment was destroyed.

The woodland fires have killed at least three persons in the past week and burned up hundreds of thousands of acres.

At least four other persons were killed by hurricane-force winds that toppled live wires onto one car, overturned another and blew down a building wall onto a third.

2 Burn to Death

In Georgia, where two men burned to death in the fight to stem about 1,000 forest fires during the week, one of the victims perished in a timber blaze that started after he ignited trash in his yard. He was Homer Carroll, 65, of Ellijay.

At Laurinburg, N.C., the badly burned body of Lonnie Brock, 72, was found by firemen who extinguished a brush fire near a cemetery.

In Virginia, where occasional rain was forecast to spread slowly eastward over the state, gale winds diminished to a whisper after fanning flames across some 18,000 acres of timberland. Asst. State Forester Ed Rodger described it as "almost a holocaust."

In one section of Shenandoah National Park, Va., one stubborn blaze refused to die down. It leaped fire lines and destroyed 308 more acres of timberland after ravaging some 700 acres earlier.

One of the biggest forest fires swept more than 70,000 acres in a tri-county area near Fairfield, N.C. and continued to rage out of control. Firefighters were pulled back when they became in danger of being trapped by the swiftly moving flames.

At least two other fires also burned out of control in North Carolina, including one which sent 1,000 acres up in smoke near Bertie, and another that consumed 3,000 acres near Louisburg.

South Carolina was having fire trouble, too, with at least 74 brush and timber blazes reported, including a 1,000-acre fire in Kershaw County.

A 36-mile stretch in western Pennsylvania's Venango County was hit by a brush and forest fire that destroyed at least one cottage and damaged several others.

In Northwest Georgia, more than 2,200 acres of timberland turned to ashes, and throughout the state 135 fires were reported.

Schlitz Says Sales, Shipments, Profits Increased in 1962

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., has announced increases in shipments, sales and net profits in 1962.

Robert A. Uihlein Jr., company president, said record shipments were 6.8 million barrels, up from 5.7 million in 1961, and more than half a million barrels ahead of the previous high set in 1952.

Sales were up 19 per cent over 1961, climbing from $215 million to $255 million for the company's three brands—premium Schlitz, Old Milwaukee and Burgermeister.

Uihlein told the annual meeting net earnings rose to $9.8 million from $6.9 the previous year, representing earnings of $2.01 a share, contrasted with $1.42 in 1961.

McCormick to At Rochester Build Up Arm

Orioles Have High Hopes for Hurler; Reds Edge Chisox

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mike McCormick's arm has been a mystery for some time, now the 24-year-old Baltimore pitcher has turned detective in an attempt to find himself.

McCormick, who's been a major leaguer since the day he signed a bonus contract with the New York Giants in 1956, was headed today for the Orioles' Rochester farm club in the International League to try to solve some of the mysteries.

Obtained from the Giants in one of the winter's biggest trades, McCormick came to Baltimore along with pitcher Stu Miller and catcher John Orsino in exchange for pitchers Jack Fisher and Billy Hoeft and catcher Jim Coker.

McCormick has been coming along slowly in the Orioles' camp and Manager Billy Hitchcock feels an additional stretch with the minor leaguers under the Florida sun could be just the cure-all McCormick needs.

Break Camp

"Mike is optimistic," said Hitchcock as the Orioles broke camp for the northward trek, "and we are encouraged by what we have seen so far. However, McCormick still needs work to build up his arm. We are leaving him with Rochester to pitch in a couple of their exhibition games."

McCormick has had the goods since he broke in with the Giants. Somewhere along the line, however, they became somewhat perishable. From 1958 to 1960, after the club had moved to San Francisco, McCormick was a regular starter, winning 11, 12 and 15.

In 1960 when he posted his 15-12

Joe DeNucci, Giambra Bout Rated Even

BOSTON (AP)—The list of characters is slightly altered—it's now Joey Giambra facing Joe DeNucci—and the theme is anything but familiar in tonight's 10 round middleweight fight.

Giambra got into the picture when Joey Archer, who was to have gone against DeNucci in the nationally-televised bout, came up with some cracked ribs.

Instead of being a distinct underdog, DeNucci now finds himself in equal graces with odds makers who rate the fight an even affair.

It's a moot point on which would be tougher, Archer or Giambra. Archer is the higher ranked, but his punching power wouldn't scare the kindergarten corps. Giambra tosses right hands with some degree of authority.

Giambra is a 29-year-old veteran of 74 fights from Buffalo, N.Y. He displays a record of 63 victories, nine losses and two draws with 31 knockouts. He's never been stopped and in his only outing this year, dropped a decision to the now welterweight champion, Luis Rodriguez.

DeNucci, only 23, hails from nearby Newton, Mass., has won 34 of his 42 bouts with two draws.

ABC will televise the bout at the Boston Arena, at 10 p.m. EST.

Sheboygan Youth Takes Lead in UW Golf Tourney

MADISON (AP)—Roger Eberhardt of Sheboygan took a first round lead in the all-University of Wisconsin golf tournament Friday with a one over par 71 on the Lake Ripley course at Cambridge.

Eberhardt, former Wisconsin state high school golf champion and a senior transfer student from Miami of Florida, posted a 34-37 to lead Bill Iversen of Clinton, Iowa, by three strokes.

Contestants will play another round of 18 holes today and the final 36 holes will be played next weekend.

Other scores of golfers vying for Wisconsin team berths in the tournament were: Emmett Terwilliger of Lancaster, 76; Dave Penn of Madison and Tom Iversen of Clinton, Iowa, 77; Scott Herrick, Sam Johnson and Miles Adams, all of Madison, 78, and Jon Alpert of Glencoe, Ill., 79.

The Badgers open the golf season April 16 in Madison against Rockford College.

Feat Nearly Repeated by Gary Stelow

MENASHA — Nick Schommer attained the pinnacle sought by all bowling addicts when he authored a 300 game in the Menasha Men's League Lanes Friday night.

Stelow

And almost duplicating Schommer's feat a couple of alleys away was Gary Stelow, who racked up 10 straight strikes before a stubborn six pin failed to fall and he wound up with a fancy 289. Both keglers posted their big scores in their third games.

Schommer's perfect game was the first on Menasha lanes since Bill Buksyk put together 12 straight strikes in the same league at Mid-Town in December, 1954. The last sanctioned one in the Twin Cities as a whole was by Les Dahms in Three - Man Classic League at Neenah's Lakeroad Lanes in July, 1959.

Schommer, who carries a 7-pin handicap and averages about 179, opened with a 200 game, dipped to 164 in the second and then closed with the 300 to finish with a 664 series, high for the night.

A member of the Prosser Beer Depot team, Schommer reported he was "shaking like a leaf" from the seventh frame on. Three of the strikes came on crossovers, and only the final ball gave him cause for worry when the 10-pin wobbled before finally keeling over.

The Menasha Kegler began bowling in 1944, but gave it up for 10 years before resuming the sport four years ago. His previous high game in sanctioned play was a 278 in the 1946-47 season although he had a 290 line and 720 three game set in open bowling. His former best this season in the Menasha circuit was a 258 game and 603 triple.

Stelow, who rolls for the Valley Refrigeration team, only managed a 587 aggregate despite his 289 finale. He began with 162, dropped to 135 and then more than doubled that total with the big finish.

Other high totals Friday night included Sheldon Klut and Bill Fraser 605, Bill Berndt 604, Dick Frakes 602 and Joe Bartman 232-594.

Verna Volkmar bowled a 203 line in the Twin City Women's League Friday night while in Thursday action Ellie Biethler slammed 223-563, and Audrey Lewis had 537 in the Fox Valley Women's League.

Bag Limit on Geese Possible in State

Proposal on Questionnaire for Consideration by Sportsmen

BY JAY REED —
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

POYNETTE — Wisconsin, for the first time this fall, may have a statewide bag limit for geese.

The conservation commission Friday approved having the question put on the questionnaire for consideration of sportsmen at Conservation Congress meetings this month.

The bag limit, if approved, would be eight geese per hunter for the year.

Commissioners agreed it will be some time before the regulations are put into final form but there appeared to be genuine agreement that something will have to be done to lengthen the goose hunt which, in recent years, has been quite short.

Recommendations

These recommendations will be up for public vote this month.

1. A state-wide season bag limit of eight geese to be enforced by free goose tags.

2. Establishment of an "intensive management zone" in Horicon Marsh to which all special regulations including the quota will apply. This is a road bounded area about twice the size of the present 2 p.m. daily closing zone. The state portion of the marsh would be included in the quota area but other special restrictions will not apply.

3. The goose season in the intensive zone to open on Oct. 1. All regulations in this zone are designed to prolong the season to an optimum length of 50 days if possible.

4. Registration of all geese killed within the intensive management zone.

5. Blind spacing with intensive management zone of one blind per 20 acres compared to present spacing of one per 10.

6. Two persons permitted to hunt from a blind instead of three as at present.

7. Flexible shooting hours in the intensive zone beginning at either 7, 8 or 9 a.m. and extending to 1 p.m. depending on the rate of kill. If this rate exceeds the amount necessary to extend the season, the later shooting hours would be invoked. A drastic step of alternate-day shooting would be invoked if later shooting hours do not reduce the rate of kill sufficiently. For a 50-day season an average daily rate of kill of two per cent of the quota would be maintained.

8. A limit of one hunting trip to the managed hunt per person. This will not only spread the opportunity to hunt in the state blinds to many more hunters but should reduce the overall gunning pressure from the peripheral strip thereby reducing the daily rate of kill.

9. A six-shell limit in the managed hunt blinds only. This is being proposed again as a measure to reduce crippling loss and improve the quality of the hunt. It was strongly supported in 1962 but was vetoed by the governor.

General waterfowl seasons will be considered by the commission at its August meeting. The federal government must first hand down its framework of regulations and assign goose quotas.

Regulations under which Wisconsin waterfowl shooters will hunt will fall somewhere within the extremes set down by Washington.

Constable and Johnson Sent Down to Minors

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves trimmed their squad to 28 players Friday by sending southpaw Jim Constable and outfielder Lou Johnson to minor league affiliates and returning infielder Ted Kazanski to the Toronto farm club.

Constable, who posted a 1-1 record in a late season trial with Milwaukee last season, was sent to Toronto after a disappointing spring in which he was hit hard in exhibition games. Johnson, who hit .282 in 61 games for the Braves in 1962, was shipped to Denver.

In effect, the cuts enabled the Braves to get down to the player limit for opening day. Outfielder Bob (Hawk) Taylor, who suffered a broken collarbone March 15, will be placed on the disabled list.

Burdette Selected To Hurl Opener

Spahn to Pitch First Home Game Against Mets Thursday

—(AP)—Veteran right hander Lew Burdette has been given the coveted assignment of pitching the first 1963 National League game for the Milwaukee Braves.

Manager Bobby Bragan selected Burdette Friday on the basis of his spectacular 0.70 earned run average in 36 innings in spring training games. The selection broke Warren Spahn's six-year hold on the opening day assignment.

The Braves open at Pittsburgh next Tuesday.

Spahn was picked for the Braves' home debut against the New York Mets next Thursday.

In seven exhibition appearances this spring, the 36-year-old Burdette allowed only three earned runs. Spahn, who will be 42 April 23, also has been outstanding, allowing eight earned runs in 40 innings for an average of 1.80. Each veteran has gone the distance once.

Burdette slumped to a 10-9 record in 1962 after averaging 19 victories in six previous seasons. He did only relief work in the last six weeks of the season.

The Pirates plan to use Bob Friend in the opener. He had an 18-14 record last year.

The Braves pitching has been excellent in the training games, helping the club to a 14-12 record. The overall staff earned run average is 2.66.

Beside Burdette and Spahn, the other individual ERA's are: Frank Funk 0.00 in 13 innings; Ron Piche 1.80 in 5, Hank Fischer 1.93 in 14, Tony Cloninger 2.14 in 24, Bob Hendley 3.13 in 25, Claude Raymond 3.38 in 8, Denny Lemaster 3.60 in 20 and Bob Shaw 4.50 in 26.

The Braves had a day of rest Friday. They wind up the training season with games with the New York Yankees today and Sunday.

Vaillant, Ortiz End Workouts

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz and challenger Doug Vaillant have finished workouts for Sunday night's 15-round title fight.

Ortiz, 26 year-old Puerto Rican, wound up training with a three-round workout, and pronounced himself fully recovered from the stomach trouble that forced one postponement in the fight, originally scheduled for last Saturday.

"Carlos is in fine shape," said Bill Daly, Ortiz' adviser. "I expect him to be sharp and ready Sunday night. He's recovered completely from the stomach sickness."

Vaillant, 25 year old Cuban living in Miami, finished off his training program with some light calisthenics and shadow boxing.

Expected to see the fight is Flash Elorde, the world junior lightweight champion from the Philippines who wants a crack at Ortiz' title if the champion makes a successful defense.

The Ortiz-Vaillant fight is scheduled to start at 8 p.m. EST, in the outdoor Hiram Bithorn Stadium.

Washington Tips UW '9' In Opener

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Wisconsin opened the baseball season Friday by dropping a 4-1 decision to Washington University. The teams were scheduled for a double header today.

The Badgers left eight runners stranded, including Al Nau who led off the sixth with a double.

Washington gained an early 1-0 lead and boosted it to 4-0 in the seventh before the Badgers got their lone run in the eighth. Denny Howe was hit by a pitched ball, got to third on a throwing error and scored on a wild pitch.

Making Mistake, Rahr Says

Game Managers Criticized for Supporting Longer Grouse Season

POYNETTE — A member of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission Friday criticized state game managers for supporting a ruffed grouse season "to satisfy a few individuals" and charged the plan threatens the existence of grouse shooting in Wisconsin.

The situation developed when Department Game Chief Robert Smith presented, for commission approval, the list of proposed rules changes to be voted upon by sportsmen at the conservation congress spring meetings this month.

The department proposed a state wide season on ruffed grouse starting Sept. 28 and continuing through Dec. 15.

Extended Season

Commissioner Guido Rahr asked Smith if this was the recommendation of the game managers? Smith said it was and that the extended season was designed for deer hunters who wanted to shoot birds while hunting whitetails.

Rahr said he disagreed with the game managers that "you can't overshoot grouse. You can and will," he said. "If you are doing this to satisfy a few deer hunters who want to pot birds out of a tree, you are making a mistake," Rahr told Smith. "You shouldn't make your decisions that way," he added.

Commissioners had little to say about other recommendations on the questionnaire.

The department proposes a deer season starting Nov. 16 continuing Nov. 24. Sportsmen will have a chance to vote on two other seasons, as well. One would be from Nov. 23 to Dec. 1 and another from Nov. 16 to Dec. 1.

Proposed is a statewide buck season with exceptions. A two-day either sex season followed by bucks only for the remainder of the shooting period has been asked for in nine counties: Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Calumet, Sheboygan, Washington, Ozaukee, Brown, Fond du Lac and Dodge.

A two-day either sex season with no other hunting has been proposed for Dunn, Pierce, Pepin, Buffalo, Trempealeau, LaCrosse, Vernon, Grant, LaFayette, Iowa, Dane, Green, Rock, Jefferson, Waukesha, Walworth, Racine and Kenosha.

The much-publicized variable quota system would be in force in five widely-separated regions, under department recommendations. A total of 8,610 permits would be issued.

A territory in the far northwest in Douglas and Bayfield counties would have 1,385 permits involved. Another area in Price, Sawyer and Ashland counties would have 620 permits.

The remainder of the permits would be issued for game management units generally in the west and central sections in counties of Jackson, Wood, Adams, Eau Claire, etc.

Also approved for spring voting was a plan to run three bear hunts with dogs in the vicinity of Park Falls, Presque Isle in Vilas County and Crandon. The organized hunts would be planned by the Conservation Congress in cooperation with local clubs and the Conservation Department.

Smith said he believed the proposed regulations would undergo considerable revision before the commission is required to act on final regulations to cover next fall's hunting seasons.

This final action probably will come in July except for waterfowl regulations which, probably, will be handled in August after the department of interior hands down federal regulation framework.

Colts Will Start Staub, Fazio in Tuesday's Opener

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Manager Harry Craft indicated today that rookies Rusty Staub and Ernie Fazio will be in the Houston line-up Tuesday when the Colts open the season against the San Francisco Giants.

Fazio's all-around play at second base during spring exhibition and .387 batting average seem to have given him an edge over the veteran Johnny Temple.

Staub, normally a first baseman, will probably occupy right field.

"I would say," Craft said "that there's a real good chance Rusty will be in right field opening day. Right now, he looks like the best hitter we have."

Souchak Remains In Masters Lead; Nicklaus has 66

Wininger Slips to Fourth; Palmer Still Not Threatening

By MERCER BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Pudgy Jack Nicklaus, whose nicknames range from "Blob-Bo" to "Baby Dumpling," was the young man to watch starting today's third round of the Masters golf tournament.

Although he and handsome Jay Hebert were one shot behind the midpoint leader, husky Mike Souchak, the 23-year-old Nicklaus held center-stage after his dazzling comeback in the second round when a blazing putter carried him to a 6-under par 66.

Souchak, a former end and place kicker on the Duke football team, didn't play the first 36 holes like a man who hasn't won a tournament in two years. His halfway chart was 69-70—139.

Nicklaus was 74-66—140 and Hebert 70-70—140.

Lowest Score

The 66 Nicklaus threw at the field Friday is the lowest score thus far in the 27th Masters and is only two shots off the record set by Lloyd Mangrum 23 years ago—the year Nicklaus was born.

Souchak escaped a three-way deadlock when he capped his second straight steady round with an eight-foot birdie putt on 18.

Bo Wininger, tied with Souchak at 69 after the first round, bogied the 18th and wound up with a 72 and 141 total, that put him in a tie for fourth place with late-finishing Ed Furgol, the lame-armed former U.S. Open champion who birdied two of the last three holes for a 71.

Neither Gary Player nor Arnold Palmer, who with Nicklaus are the big names of current-day golf, was in a particularly threatening position starting the final two rounds.

Player, who said he never got the one big shot to get him rolling, struggled to a 74 for 145—six strokes off the pace Palmer, the defending champion, who managed a mild rally on the back nine despite a ragged game, had a 73 for 147.

Didn't Fall

The strong man from Pennsylvania teed off Thursday hoping to score two Masters "firsts." No one ever has won successive Masters titles and no one ever has won four Masters crowns.

With two rounds to go, it isn't impossible for Palmer to come through—but it would take another of those amazing rallies for which he is noted to turn the trick.

Sam Snead, a three-time Masters champion, with a 73; former Open titlist Dick Mayer, with a 70, and Tony Lema, one of the hot young men among the touring pros, with a 69, were deadlocked in sixth place at 143.

Scores were higher this year, due in a large part to the baked, hard greens and gusty winds during the first round, and 50 players shooting 152 or under qualified for the final 36 holes. Last year it took a 150 or better to make the cut.

Among those who failed to survive were Jerry Barber, the little veteran who won the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., last week, and former Masters champions Jack Burke Jr. and Cary Middlecoff. Barber missed by one stroke, Burke by two and Middlecoff by 16.

Nicklaus, who gained considerable fame while still an amateur and really hit the bigtime after beating Palmer in a playoff for the U.S. Open title last year, did

Mayasich Is Suspended

Player-Coach of Bobcats Can Appeal Ruling

GREEN BAY — Player-coach Johnny Mayhasich of the Green Bay Bobcats has been suspended for a year by officials of the United State Hockey League.

Mayasich drew the suspension for failing to put a team on the ice on time in the league playoffs two weeks ago at Waterloo, Iowa.

League commissioner Wayne Overbaught, Rochester, Minn. said the suspension would run until March 31, 1964 but Green Bay can appeal the ruling at the league meeting in Minneapolis May 20.

Mayasich refused to order his team on the ice in the playoff, protesting the use of an allegedly ineligible player by the opposing team. The Bobcats finnaly did take the ice, two hours late.

$4.5 to $5 Million

Paul Brown, Backers May Purchase Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A syndicate headed by Paul Brown, former coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns, probably will buy the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League for between $4.5 and $5 million, it has been learned. A source close to the Eagles said he was confident a majority of the 60 stockholders would vote to sell.

In Cleveland, Arthur Modell, president of the Browns who fired Brown in January, cleared the way for the deal by saying he would release Brown from a contract obligation.

Modell said Brown signed a contract within the past 10 days which redefined his duties with the club but added that Brown could take another job if he so desired.

Contract Terms

Brown, who would take over as general manager and coach of the Eagles, has six years remaining on a 10-year contract as vice president of the Cleveland team at an estimated $70,000 a year. Brown had claimed that Modell breached their contract, which calls for him to be coach-general manager. He says he already was a vice president, the new post assigned him by Modell.

Brown was not available for comment Friday night.

He hasn't made a formal bid but he reportedly sounded out Eagles' officials about the availability of the franchise shortly after he was fired from his Cleveland post last January.

Frank McNamee, Philadelphia Fire Commissioner and president of the Eagles, declined to comment on the story.

It was understood that the 71-year-old McNamee and Joseph A. Donoghue, executive vice president and secretary, would be in favor of selling to Brown provided the team remains in Philadelphia. McNamee and Donoghue likely would remain with the Eagles.

Take Poll

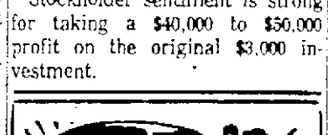

McNamee is expected to announced Monday the date of a stockholders' meeting, at which time a poll would be taken to determine who wants to sell and the price. The meeting probably will be held sometime this month.

The Eagles earned $500,000 in the past two years, making them one of the more profitable franchises in the NFL. Club officials say this year's season ticket sales are ahead of last year at the same time, despite a poor 3-10-1 record under Coach Nick Skorich in 1962.

The franchise was purchased by the present owners in 1949 for $250,000 from the late New York millionaire, Alexis Thompson, who lost $80,000 in 1948. Originally, 100 persons bought the franchise from Thompson, each putting up $3,000.

Under the guidance of McNamee and the late James P. Clark the Eagles moved into a profit-making organization, selling some 42,000 season tickets last year with six sellout games. They won the NFL title in 1949 and 1960.

Stockholder sentiment is strong for taking a $40,000 to $50,000 profit on the original $3,000 investment.

Common Sense Applied

Batters Taking New Strike Zone in Stride

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's new expanded strike zone, which began like a tidal wave in a puddle, is hardly causing a ripple these days.

The batters, whose moaning and groaning could be heard the length of the land during the winter, have stopped complaining since theory has been put into practice.

There's still an occasional gripe from a frustrated hitter about "a high strike," but in the main the batters have taken the new rule in stride.

By now virtually everybody is aware that the new strike rule allows the pitcher a bigger target, something like eight more inches. The strike area, has been enlarged to the space between the top of batter's shoulders to the level of his knees. Previously it was between the armpits and the tops of the knees.

National League umpire Jocko Conlan says this about the change:

"You have to use common sense. You can't go around with a slide rule. I call 'em as I see 'em. I always have and always will."

Little Change

The application of such common sense means there actually has been little change. In all the exhibition games in Arizona and California, no more than half a dozen players were heard to complain. One of them was Albie Pearson of the Los Angeles Angels, who is only 5-feet-5 and does not have much of a strike zone anyway.

Cal Hubbard, supervisor of the American League umpires, who stayed in Florida during the spring training season, reported he has seen only 8 or 12 pitches called strikes that would not have been called last year in the first 6 or 7 games he saw.

One of the reasons for this is that most of the hitters quickly adjusted to the new strike zone. Fearful of having "high strikes" called against them, they are swinging more now.

It is interesting to note that the players who did the loudest beefing earlier have done the least complaining.

When Mickey Mantle first learned about the new strike zone, he groaned, "I'll probably strike out 400 times this year."

Asked recently if he could see any change, following nearly a month of spring exhibitions, the Yankee slugger said: "Nope."

Jim Gentile, the Baltimore slugger, was not as conciliatory, however.

"I've been trying to lay off that high pitch all my life," he said. "Now it's a strike."

Frank Robinson, Cincinnati's great right-handed hitter, voiced a similar feeling.

"It took me years to learn to lay off that high, hard one," he said. "now I've got to readjust my swing."

Stan Musial, the sweetest swinger this side of baseball's Hall of Fame merely shrugged when asked whether the new strike zone made any difference to him.

"I've never thought much about it," he said. "If the pitch looks good to me, I swing at it, whether it's high, low, inside or outside."

"I don't need an umpire to tell me whether the pitch is a ball or a strike."

not have a bogey on his second round card. He sank putts of from eight to 20 feet for five of his birdies and on five straight holes on the front nine other birdie putts hit the cup but didn't fall.

A great recovery shot from the woods and a tremendous chip which almost fell for an eagle 3 gave Souchak a birdie on the long second hole. On No. 7 he laid a sand iron shot two feet from the cup for another bird and then bogied the ninth after his tee shot hit a tree. After eight straight pars on the back nine, he dropped in that eight-footer that made him the leader.

Hebert holed a 20-foot birdie putt on No. 9, got a birdie deuce with an 8-iron shot five feet from the pin on the short No. 12 and picked up another bird in routine fashion on the long 13th. His bogey came on the par 3 fourth, where he took three strokes to get down for the fringe.

Kansas City Votes Texans Stadium Rights

City Will Execute Seven-Year Contract With Dallas Team

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The city council voted 7-2 Friday to execute a seven-year contract with the Dallas Texans professional football team for use of Municipal Stadium.

The contract grants the Texans stadium rights for $1 a year the first two football seasons and 5 per cent of the gate receipts thereafter.

The city will receive one-half of concession profits for the entire seven years.

The contract can be cancelled if the Texans show they are bankrupt or do not have enough cash reserves to continue operating.

Lamar Hunt, owner, has promised to move the team here from Dallas if 25,000 season tickets are sold for the 1963 season.

Action Taken

Action on the contract was taken by the council at its last regular meeting before going out of office next Wednesday. Mayor H. Roe Bartle, one of eight councilmen who either retired or failed to win relection, said action was necessary immediately in order to clear the way for sale of the season tickets.

The lease contract commits the city to spend up to $650,000 in bond revenues for stadium improvements and construction of a practice field and headquarters building.

Three thousand permanent seats and 11,000 removable seats will be added to the park, which has a seating capacity of 32,561 for baseball.

The council took no action on a request by Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics baseball team, that he also be granted use of the stadium for $1 a year for the next two years.

Lolita Schade Powers 570 'Classic' Set

Lolita Schade powered a 225 game and 570 series to lead the Women's Classic League at the 41 Bowl.

In a close league race, Marc's Big Boy and the 41 Bowl are tied for first place with 52-35 records while Courtney and Plummer is just one game behind.

Other honor scores included Evelyn Steinacher, 190 and 513; Norma Funk, 510; Marion Horn, 516; Ann Hocevar, 200 and 517; Mary Leitz, 201 and 514; Eileen McCarey, 192 and 519; Marge Theisen, 510; Shirley "Butch" Helser, 191 and 529.

Leone Uetzman fired a 507 series to lead the Kitchen Cheaters League at Hahn's Lanes in the final round of action.

Johnson Cleaners won the league championship and Also Foods was second, 6½ games out.

False Distress Calls Results In Jail Term

RACINE (AP)—A Racine man was sentenced to 15 days at hard labor Friday for shouting a "Mayday" distress call into an automobile radio transmitter March 18 and sending various air and surface rescue units on a fruitless search of Lake Michigan.

John Jacobs, 21, pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct before County Judge Thomas Corbett. He said he was riding with another youth in a car equipped with a civilian band radio licensed to the other youth's father.

He admitted making the distress call which purported to be from a pilot "300 feet above Lake Michigan and going down fast," but said he didn't know the radio was operating.

Michigan Youngster Refused Soil Sample From White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Little Catherine O'Connor, age 7, won't be getting a sample of dirt from the White House to add to her growing soil collection.

On behalf of Caroline Kennedy, age 5, to whom Catherine appealed, the White House says it's sorry, but it can send no sample.

Although unwilling to reveal just what reply was sent to Catherine in Ann Arbor, Mich., a White House spokesman explained, "We have so many similar requests, we're sorry we can't oblige her."

The little girl, a second grader, is embarked on a collection of soils from every state and the District of Columbia in the interest of a science project.

She put Caroline Kennedy on her list in an effort to get a pinch of Washington soil.

But the White House chose not to get involved. When asked why, Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, said:

"We don't send leaves from the trees, gravel from the walks or paint from the walls."

Freedom Sports Group to Sponsor Banquet, Team

FREEDOM The Freedom Athletic Association will sponsor a banquet for the athletes of Freedom High School. John Schwaller and Clyde Weyenberg are in charge of the arrangements.

The association will also sponsor a baseball team again in the Fox River Valley League. Roger Gerritts will manage the team. Ron Herman will be in charge of the advertisements.

Freedom will also enter a baseball team in the Dairyland League. The association will pay the franchise fees and donate the uniforms. The new baseball team will elect officers and be independent of the association. No manager has been decided upon.

Giants Will Retaliate in Event of Beanball, Says Dark

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP)—Throw at Willie Mays and you'll get thrown at yourself.

San Francisco Giants' manager Alvin Dark used more words to say it, but that's what he meant in baseball's latest beanball episode.

"If the umpires won't do anything to protect our players, we'll do it," the manager of the National League champions declared today.

"It's going to be that way as long as I'm manager.

"Every time one of my players goes down, we're going to retaliate. We did it last year, and we'll do it again until the umpires do something about it."

Sails Over Head

As the Giants lost their exhibition outing to the Cleveland Indians Thursday in Modesto 12-7, Mays hit the dirt in the first inning as a pitch sailed over his head. Dark protested immediately.

In the third, Cleveland right-hander Floyd Weaver put another pitch over Mays' head and when Weaver next came to bat, he was hit on the left arm by Giant pitcher Jack Sanford and the injury put him out of action.

When Sanford had his next turn at bat, Sonny Siebert sailed a wild pitch over his head and Dark stormed out in renewed protest.

Umpire John Rice, of the American League, banished the San Francisco manager from the game and warned Cleveland's pilot Birdie Tebbetts.

As Dark laid down his ultimatum he added, "It's not Birdie Tebbetts' fault nor the pitchers' fault. It's the umpires' fault for not stopping it as soon as it happens. They don't say a word when Willie goes down, but when we throw at somebody, the umpires step in and start warning everybody."

Ford Frick Looks to 1963 Season in Majors With Great Optimism

National Game Never Healthier, Commissioner Says

BY FORD FRICK

Commissioner of Baseball

Written For The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — I have every reason in the world to look forward to the 1963 baseball season with great optimism.

Never has our national game been healthier nor more popular with the people of our country than last year. More than 25 million persons came out to see the major league teams in action.

More important to my way of thinking is the knowledge that there were 3,600,000 youngsters throughout the nation participating in organized baseball of some sort. That includes boys in American Legion, Babe Ruth, Pony and Little League baseball.

My interest in baseball lies far beyond that of the professional leagues. I regard baseball as an American institution, an important aspect in our way of life.

Believe me, I don't wish to use this as a sounding board for baseball but the fact is that the game has never been as attractive to our people as it is today.

Attendance Up

Attendance figures in the last 17 years have increased by more than 104 per cent over a corresponding number of years before World War II. In the 17 years up to and through World War II, —1929-1945—a total of 148,988,935 persons attended big league games. In the 17 years since, 1946-62 attendance was 204,210,696.

The increase of 155,221,760 is greater than the total attendance of those first 17 years.

One other statistic, if you please. Before the war, the American League's all-time high attendance was 5,533,791 in 1940 while the National League's was 5,446,552 in 1936. The lowest attendances since the war were 7,296,834 for the American in 1958 and 7,244,003 for the National in 1951. In other words, the lowest attendances since the war were higher than the highest attendances before the war.

Anybody after looking at these figures who still says people are losing interest in baseball just doesn't know what he's talking about.

If baseball is dying it sure is a pretty healthy corpse.

Baseball can't be evaluated on attendance alone. I am interested in baseball as an American institution. It is an important avenue in our way of life. There is no wrong side of the street. It still is the greatest common equalizer. The only thing that distinguishes one player from another is his ability.

I think the new rules designed to speed up games will help baseball. I am not as concerned as some others about the length of games. What I would like to see are some of the dead spots eliminated and I think rules designed to reduce the number of bases on balls and pitching changes are a cinch to help.

Athletes Will Get Awards At Dinner

IOLA — Awards in football, cross-country, basketball, wrestling and cheerleading will be received by participants at the second annual Athletic Banquet Monday evening at the Iola Scandinavia high school.

The dinner will be served at 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose room.

D. O. Ombolt, master of ceremonies, will introduce the featured speaker, John Erickson, basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin. Bart Starr, quarterback of the Green Bay Packers, spoke at last year's banquet.

AC to Explore Possibilities of '64 Pact With UAW

MILWAUKEE (AP)—R.S. Stevenson, president of the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., said Thursday that mutual interests with the United Auto Workers "may well include exploring" the possibility of advance discussions on the 1964 contract negotiations.

Stevenson noted in a letter to Walter Reuther, union president, that A-C and the UAW now have seven separate agreements "negotiated largely by local plant management and UAW union representatives from the respective locations," and added, "This is as it should be at Allis-Chalmers."

Stevenson replied to a letter by Reuther who urged the "presentation of the principles of free collective bargaining."

(Valley Iron Works, Inc., Appleton, is a subsidiary of Allis Chalmers.)

Garage Fire Started By Burning Trash

KAUKAUNA — Firemen were called to extinguish a garage fire at the Robert Roberts residence, 124 W. Sixth Street, about 6:05 p. m. Thursday.

Damage was limited to one side of the structure. Cause of the blaze was an unattended trash burner, according to firemen.

The department extinguished a grass fire near Kline Dairy, W. 11th Street, about 1:45 p.m.

McCormick to Build Up Arm At Rochester

mark, he had the league's lowest earned run average, a brilliant 2.70. In 1961, he slipped to 13-16, then last season ran into the first mystery and slid to 5-5 while spending most of his time on the sidelines with a sore arm.

The announcement of McCormick's first tour of duty with the minor leaguers came on a slack day along the exhibition trail as most clubs were on the move. In addition, the San Francisco-Cleveland and Houston-Kansas City games were rained out.

In the only games played, Cincinnati edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2 at Lynchburg, Va., and the New York Yankees whipped Philadelphia 4-2 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The Reds won it with runs in the eighth and ninth innings. An error by shortstop Al Weis and a pinch-hit double by Harry Bright gave the Reds an unearned eighth inning run that snapped a 1-1 tie before they came up with the clincher in the ninth on Ken Walters' run-scoring single.

Mickey Mantle put the Yankees ahead to stay against Phils' ace Art Mahaffey, smashing a two-run double in a three-run third inning uprising that put it out of reach. Mahaffey, trying to work the kinks out of a sore shoulder, worked four innings.

Former Foxes Player, Miller Optioned Out

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles optioned pitchers Steve Dalkowski and John Miller to Rochester of the International League Friday, reducing their roster to the required opening-day limit.

The young pitchers were cut as the Orioles broke camp and headed home for the opening of the American League season. On the way, Baltimore will play the New York Mets in an exhibition at Portsmouth, Va., Saturday.

Dalkowski, 23, had an outstanding record in spring training, but suffered a pinched nerve in his left arm two weeks ago. He has been advised by the orthopedic surgeon not to throw breaking pitches for 10 days.

Miller, 21, had a 6-3 record in the minor leagues last year and was 1-1 with the Orioles late in the season.

The Orioles now have 28 players on their roster, including infielder Dave Johnson. He has been optioned, but as a first-year player he must be counted against the major league roster.

Bonnie LeNoble Hits 500 Series

LITTLE CHUTE — Bonnie LeNoble had a 500 series for the lone honor score in the Wednesday Ladies League at the Recreation alleys.

In the final standings, Hartjes Bar won the league championship with a 66½-23½ record and the Bank of Little Chute finished second, 10 games off the pace.

The league will hold a banquet April 17 at 6:30 p.m. at Min's Bar.

Conservation Unit To Spend $500,000

Expenditures Okayed for Land Purchases; Chairman Gives Warning on Program

POYNETTE — The Wisconsin Conservation Commission Friday approved expenditures of nearly $500 000 for land purchases and heard its chairman sound a stern warning that the state is heading for trouble in its land acquisition program

Guido Rahr Manitowac strongly intimated the commission and department should change its system of land purchase or future commissions will be so overburdened with expenses they will be unable to meet them unless new sources of revenue are found "

The problem in Rahr's view is that once the public knows the department intends to develop a particular parcel of land values on the property skyrocket He noted particularly that land values jumped 60 per cent in the Kettle Moraine State Forest once the department began to develop it

I think the commission and the department should see Rahr said that projects all nearly started are completed Then we should do something about exercising control over the purchases program

He questioned present policy in which the department buys a parcel of land and indicates its desire to develop the area "You can see by what happened in Kettle Moraine what the situation is when the public knows the conservation department is going in to an area after land" he said among the expenditures approved was $34 000 for a total 841 acres in the Navarino Marsh wildlife area

Purchased were 221 acres from Fred and Ruth Holmes Clinton ville for $11 000 20 acres from Richard and Joanne Peterson Jr, Green Bay $400 75 acres from Harvey and Elsie Schuelke, Bonduel, $3 500 and 425 acres from Fred and Victoria Schultz, Shawano $19 000

Poygan Marsh Increased

The Poygan Marsh wildlife area was increased by a 10 acre gift from Mr and Mrs John H Boyson, Jr, Fremont and by a 23-acre purchase from Fred and Myrtle Smoody, Poy Sippi, for $1 260

The Brillion Marsh in Calumet County was increased through two purchases 99 acres from Marbannard Brillion $1 650 and 89 53 acres from John and Hattie Buhlmann Iron River $2 000

The commission confirmed expenditures previously approved of $106 009 for a toilet marina concession building park shelter building public bathhouse and other improvements at High Cliff State Park

Federally-Protected Bird

2 Arrested, Jailed for Killing Whistling Swan

A routine investigation by Sheriff Lt Jack Frenzl into a broken window in a rural Kaukauna home has led to the arrest of two Kaukauna men who admitted they shot a protected whistling swan March 30

Being held in the Outagamie County jail without bond are David Doolittle 700 Division St and Carl A Bowers route 1, Kaukauna both 26 The men pleaded guilty Friday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 of carrying uncased guns in a car, shooting and killing a federally protected bird the whistling swan and of transporting the dead bird in a car

County Judge Gustave Keller continued the case until 3 p m Monday so he could be better informed of other details in the case

Broken by Rock

Frenzl said a rural Kaukauna family reported the front window of their home had been broken by a large rock Wednesday After questioning the family, Frenzl said they had information of hunters in the area who had been seen carrying a white swan into a nearby barn Frenzl said he investigated further and brought warrants against Doolittle and Bowers

Because the whistling swan is protected by the federal government, Frenzl said the federal game warden has been brought into the case and has conferred with him

Wisconsin is on the flyway of the whistling swan which winters in the Carolinas and spreads into the Arctic regions for nesting during the summer months Nearly every bird in the North American flock makes the rest stop in Wisconsin, experts say Popular "sit down' area for the birds is the Lake Winnebago region along the Fox River to Green Bay

The swan has been protected by federal law since 1918 Wardens state, however that rarely does a season pass that some hunter does not shoot some of the birds, with the excuse that they thought the swans were snow geese
